he never thought about retiring. He just "wanted to get back at it again."

Goodman succeeds Hicks who came out of retirement to head the department after the resignation of Sturgis during the secret pay raise controversy last year.

This controversy brought a cry from the Republican Party that too much politics was involved in the highway commission.

Goodman wouldn't comment on whether he thought the politics issue had been ironed out. It was noted, though, that commission Chairman Wayne Hampton said the commission did not consult with either Gov. Orval Faubus or Governor-elect Winthrop Rockefeller concerning Goodman's selection.

Goodman defended the commission for doing so. Consulting with Faubus or Rockefeller "shouldn't be a factor at all," he said. "The commission makes these appointments."

Goodman, who has served as president of the Arkansas Society of Professional Engineers, expressed pleasure over the appointment. "I wouldn't have taken it without knowing that I had the confidence of every man here," he said.

At present, Goodman said he has no road building priorities in mind, but pointed out he would work for more and better highways in the state. "This is what the people will expect," he added.

He said he thought his program would be slowed by the recently announced cutback in federal funds, but said, "I'll attempt to do a good job with the money we have."

Goodman's wife, Mamye, and their son, W. W. Ward Jr., were present for the commission's announcement Wednesday. His son is a budget analyst in the comptroller's office.

Goodman was born in Lewis County, Tennessee, but has lived in Arkansas since childhood.

For the past 12 years, he has taken part in affairs of the American Association of State Highway Officials, been a member of the Planning and Design Policies Committee, a member of the executive committee and chairman of the standing Committee on Bridges and Structures.

He is an engineering graduate of the University of Arkansas.

Cuba Shock Troops Like Red Guards

By THEODORE A. EDIGER
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Recently created shock troops described by exiles as similar to China's Red Guards are reported on the move in Cuba.

The units, officially called Youth Technical Brigades, reportedly have the dual role of serving as technicians in industries and on farms and making certain the workers are good producers and good Communists.

The official Havana newspaper Granma, which reaches some exiles, quoted Cuban Labor Confederation Secretary General Miguel Martin as describing the brigades as "a shock troop against indolence, disorganization and lack of discipline."

Mario Fontela, secretary general of the Miami-based Democratic Revolutionary Labor Front, an anti-Castro labor organization, said brigade members wear blue shirts, work trousers and a holster with a revolver.

"Fidel (Castro) imitated the Chinese in forming the same type of groups as the Red Guards," Fontela said. "The functions are the same — ,vercome the rebellion of the worker."

Castro said in a speech monitored here Dec. 18 that young farm technicians receive military training. He told a graduating class in Havana: "This is a youth group that has received military instruction, that constitutes units for defense of the country," Castro did not mention the brigades by name.

A Havana radio broadcast monitored Nov. 14 quoted Martin as listing 761 brigades in Cuba, with more being formed. The membership was placed at 8,103. Brigades were reported functioning at industrial, farm and other centers.

Pay Not Better, as Promised
MOSCOW (AP) — Collective farmers in many Soviet regions are not getting the better pay they were promised, Pravda complained today.

The farmers turned in a record grain crop this year, the government announced Tuesday, and increased total farm output 10 per cent. The new pay system was hailed as a major factor behind the good crop, but Pravda said it was never introduced in many regions because farm bosses found the old system more convenient.

The new system calls for a guaranteed monthly wage such as city workers get. In the past, collective farmers got only what cash was left over, if any, after all bills of the collective farm had been paid.

Income of collective farmers now is 33 per cent below that of workers in industry by government estimate, or about $66 a month.

Ike Returns to Farm Home

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has returned to his snow-covered farm home and is planning a trip next week to his favorite sun spot, Palm Desert near Palm Springs, Calif.

The five-star general arrived Tuesday afternoon from Walter Reed Army Hospital where his gall bladder was removed Dec. 12. A spokesman at his office reported "everything is fine."

Eisenhower is scheduled to leave Jan. 4 for California. Meanwhile he plans to take it easy.

U.S. Hoarding Rich Calif. Oil Property

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — For 54 years the federal government has been hoarding a $3-billion property in Elk Hills, Calif., hoping it may never have to use it.

It is a 98-square-mile reserve rich in oil deposits — one of Uncle Sam's most valuable pieces of real estate. Scattered across the brush-covered hills, 10 miles from Taft, are 1,032 wells ready to produce 230,000 barrels of oil a day.

But aside from periodic checks on functioning — and a short period in World War II — the wells are little used. They are America's standby oil pool for national emergencies. Probably only an all-out war would get the wells into production.

The reserve is administered by the U.S. Navy and is overseen by Navy Cmdr. Justin D. Denman, a veteran of battleship, carrier and cruiser duty. Assisting Denman is another Navy officer and 16 civilians. Then there are about a 100 persons employed by the Standard Oil Co.

Of the 46,095 acres in the reserve, Standard Oil owns about 20 per cent. It owned all the land prior to Sept. 12, 1912 when Congress set it aside. Standard Oil is cooperating with the plan and draws only enough oil to pay taxes and operating expenses.

So rich is the field that during a period following World War II, 200 wells were drilled without hitting a dry hole.

In fact, the oil workers produce $10 million worth of oil a year just in periodic tests of well equipment and in restricting losses from movement. It all flows into the U.S. Treasury.

The field figured in the 1923 Teapot Dome scandal that shook the administration of President Warren G. Harding. A Senate investigation disclosed that Albert B. Fau, then secretary of the interior, had persuaded the secretary of the Navy to transfer the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome Wyoming oil reserves to Fall's department. Fall leased the reserves to private oil producers without competitive bidding. Fall said the government should get all the royalties it could before the field was drained by wells in the adjoining Salt Creek field. Fall was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from his former prospecting partner, Edward L. Doheny. Doheny was acquitted in the same court and before the same judge of giving Fall the bribe.

Expeditions to Moon in 10 Years?

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Harvard astronomer today forecast good-sized expeditions of earthmen to the moon in 10 to 15 years — with the adventurers tapping their drinking water from the lunar rocks and planting the first lunar gardens.

But he said they'll have to be equipped to do their daytime gardening amid temperatures ranging up to that of boiling water. And he said if they venture from their shelters at night to check on their moon-plants, they'll have to have "pretty heavy red flannel underwear" to withstand temperatures some 240 degrees below zero.

That's the word from Dr. Donald Menzel of the Harvard Observatory who also told reporters at the 133rd meeting of the American Association for the advancement of science: When the explorers run out of food they might bring from the earth, they'll conceivably be able to diet not only on their cultivated moon-plants but on such delicacies as "a form of sand flea that reportedly tastes like shrimp when ground up."

He said the Army Quartermaster Corps is experimenting with various forms of vegetative and animal life — such as molds, bacteria and the sand fleas — which theoretically might be cultivated in the virtually airless, near-vacuum conditions of the moon's surface.

Menzel said recent evidence, such as the pictures taken by the American Orbiter satellites, erases any doubt that the lunar surface "has the strength to support vehicles, manned landings and explorations."

The Harvard astronomer, one of a panel of space scientists discussing the latest knowledge of the moon's surface and interior at the big science meeting, told a news conference: "I think it's possible that some of the rocks on the moon contain what we call 'water of crystallization.' And, if so, there's a real possibility for man — about 10 to 15 years from now — to have self-supporting expeditions on the moon."

Arkadelphian to Face Trial

MARION, Ind. (AP) — Glenn Stewart, 30, formerly of Arkadelphia, Ark., will go on trial here April 3 on a charge of first-degree murder and accessory after the fact in the May 8 dismemberment slaying of Larry Schmidt, 30, of Marion.

Stewart pleaded innocent to the charges at his arraignment here Tuesday.

Schmidt's body was found here May 22. Also charged is Schmidt's widow, Edith Louise Schmidt, 25, who goes on trial three weeks before Stewart.

Her trial will be at Portland, Ind., on a charge of venue. Stewart was captured in a wooded area near Arkadelphia May 25.

NATO Plans to Update Warning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PARIS (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to begin construction immediately of an up-to-date early warning system that will stretch from Norway to Turkey, NATO announced today.

The highly sophisticated $300-million system to warn of any attack from the Soviet bloc area is expected to be completed within several years, replacing an existing system. Harlan Cleveland, U.S. ambassador to NATO, said it would be the "largest and most important military construction project in NATO history."

The new system is called the NATO Air Defense Ground Environment project, or NADGE.

British Seek 16 Escapees

LONDON (AP) — Sixteen of 30 prisoners who escaped from British jails over Christmas weekend were still on the loose today following the voluntary return of one and the capture of another.

The rash of escapes has members of Parliament exerting pressure on Home Secretary Roy Jenkins to come up with guaranteed remedy and demanding special measures to prevent more breakouts. About 300 prisoners have escaped this year, causing a national scandal.

Anthony Newley Hopes to Conquer

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

ST. LUCIA, W.I.—(NEA)—If Tony Newley had lived in 1491, he probably would have discovered America.

He's that kind of man, ambitious, inquisitive and constantly on a dual quest—to conquer all fields while proving to himself that he can.

He has conquered British television, after a long career as a child star in British movies; he has conquered both the British stage and Broadway as a star-director-coauthor (with Leslie Bricusse) of hits like "Stop the World I Want to Get Off" and "The Roar of the Greasepaint—The Smell of the Crowd"; he is getting a bundle for a forthcoming Las Vegas debut; he has made his mark in guest appearances on American television; now he is starring in a major Hollywood film, being shot partially on this lush Caribbean island.

It's "Dr. Dolittle," and Tony costars with Rex Harrison and Samantha Eggar. He is "only" acting in the musical fantasy.

"I always only acted until a couple of years ago," he said over dinner after a long day on the set.

"If I had any class I would only do one thing at a time. I'm surprised how little I know about acting. I'm more scared of acting right now than ever. Perhaps as we get older we care more."

With his hair long for his role in the period picture, Tony looks like a man who belongs in another era. But he's very much of today, creative, restless, searching and probing. "Show business has been a monumental dare to myself. Everything I have done in the last five years has been to show I can do it when I think I can't."

He worries that he has lost the art of being natural as a performer.

"I've lost my virginity, not only as a singer but also as a performer. I must try to get it back. I must try to uncover me. I am shy but now I have become a sophisticate and I have stopped giving pieces of myself away. I'm enormously shy, but all is facade, facade."

After "Dr. Dolittle," he will appear in "Sweet November" opposite Sandy Dennis. Then he plans to produce, direct and star in a film he is writing.

"I have passions. Now I want to be a writer and a director. I had problems when I directed 'Greasepaint.' They just couldn't believe that actors could hold the stage without choreographing every movement. If I was given a good piece of dialogue, I think I could hold an audience just by concentrating on the words. The show would have been 20 per cent better if I could have given the audience what I knew was in me. But I had to set an example for the others. There's no doubt about it—I cheated my audiences."

Temporarily, Tony and Leslie Bricusse have no plans to collaborate on additional musicals. (Bricusse alone contributed the songs in "Dr. Dolittle.") "Les, like myself, needs to prove he can do it on his own. He would like to be Leslie Bricusse as I would like to be Tony Newley. When we were working on 'Greasepaint,' we tried quite callously to turn out 15 hit songs. It would be a shame if we don't work together again. Meanwhile, each of us has his own destiny."

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Shields, Jr., Mark and Sandra spent Christmas in Shreveport with Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shields.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson came home Tuesday from Hanover, Ind., where they were with Mr. and Mrs. Harve Rawson for Christmas.

Mrs. Jack Gray and children Longview, Tex., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. B. McPherson and Mr. Gray will join them here this weekend.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In the television world there are two categories of successful shows. There is the genuine hit, the kind the public samples, likes and will follow to a new time period and a new night in the schedule.

"Gomer Pyle" is an example. Last season it had high Nielsen ratings on a Friday evening. This season it is doing even better on Wednesday nights.

There are also the shows, counted as successful, that beat their competition on the other networks. Some pretty dreadful shows are hits merely because the opposition was even worse.

"Gilligan's Island" was a hit last season when it was on a

Thursday night opposite "Gidget." This season it was moved to Monday nights, found real competition in "The Monkees" and "The Iron Horse," and dropped like a stone in the ratings.

Programs with weak competition are in what the trade calls "a soft spot." The happiest position for a fledgling show used to be opposite CBS' Tuesday night news hour, which while excellent, almost always has small audiences.

NBC's movie reruns have become so popular that "The Fugitive," a Nielsen front-runner for several seasons, has slipped to a point where it is doubtful Dr. Kimble will still be on the lam next season.

Sometimes the success of a program is pegged on other circumstances that have little to do with dramatic or entertainment qualities.

"Daktari" on Tuesday nights, is one of these. As drama, the show is about as realistic and meaningful as "Batman."

But "Daktari" abounds in shots of delightful animals—a sweet, patient cross-eyed lion, a funny little chimp and many other nonhuman but lovable guest stars. Probably few viewers pay much attention to the silly stories.

Besides, its competition is "Combat," a war series that had several fine seasons but lately has tried to cover up lack of good scripts by filling much of each episode with the good American infantrymen firing guns at the bad Germans. The other show is "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E.," which was too little and too late an entry in the secret agent derby.

The result is that the animal show is in Nielsen's top 20 shows. The other two are in the lower half of the list.

Talks to Survivor of Yule Ambush

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says he has talked with a survivor of a Christmas Day ambush by the Viet Cong.

Arriving in Los Angeles Tuesday after a 10-day visit to Vietnam, Graham told a news conference that he talked with a soldier who was among five ambushed while they ate Christmas dinner.

Three were killed and two were injured during the attack, which occurred during the truce, Graham said.

Graham said he is pessimistic about an early end to the war. But, he said he does not think the morals of U.S. servicemen are "any worse than at colleges back home."

He said, "I don't think Vietnam and Saigon have become one vast brothel."

Tournament Is Following the Script

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas State Invitational basketball tournament followed the pre-meet script as powerful Houston, No. 6 in the nation, and Arkansas State rolled into tonight's championship battle.

Houston tripped a pesky Kent State team, 85-73, before Arkansas State came to life in the final 10 minutes and beat Virginia Military Institute, 81-71, in Wednesday's opening round.

An estimated 4,000 fans crowded into the Indian Fieldhouse but sat through the frustrations of cold shooting and poor ball handling, a normal occurrence when teams return to battle following a Christmas break.

But the talent on the tall Houston squad was evident, especially that of a cat-quick pair—6-foot-8 Elvin Hayes and 6-foot-5 Don Chaney.

They divided 44 points evenly and led surges that put the Cougars in command each time the Golden Flashes threatened to pull a major upset.

Kent State, fighting a decisive disadvantage in height and muscle, used hustle to turn in an outstanding effort.

The Flashes held brief leads early in the game until Hayes drilled in a 10-foot jump shot with 15:26 left in the half, putting Houston ahead to stay at 12-10.

Four goal-tending violations Hayes accounted for eight Kent State points, but these were offset by Chaney, who stole the ball seven times from the bewildered Kent State guards.

Hayes was held to only five points in the first half, the lowest in his career. He pulled down 21 rebounds to break the tournament record of 17 set by Harry Flournoy of Texas Western in 1963.

Doug Grayson, hitting 11 of 21 shots from the field, led the Flashes with 22 points and Doug Sims had 20.

VMI and Arkansas State stumbled through a cold first half in which the Indians rallied near the end to take a 32-28 advantage.

Milton Sullivan, a freshman with tremendous jumping ability, combined with John Dickson to put Arkansas State in control with about 10 minutes left in the game.

Dickson scored 22 points and Sullivan 17 while David Renn added 14 and Dave Velandier 10 for Arkansas State.

Ralph Wright led VMI with 17 points followed by John Mitchell with 14, Denny Clark 11 and Bob DeVos 10.

Henderson Drops Meet Favorite

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — Henderson dropped favored Sam Houston 87-86 in the AIC holiday basketball tournament Wednesday night on Hubert Langley's layup with two seconds left.

In other opening round games, Southern State smashed Ozarks 101-63, Northeast Louisiana State College downed Arkansas State Teachers 88-81 and Ouachita whipped Arkansas College 80-71.

Henderson had held a nine-point lead on three separate occasions in the last half, but Sam Houston caught up on the shooting of Bill Mehrins, Ron Borgino put Sam Houston in the lead for the first time 86-85 with 16 seconds left in the game, but Langley drove the length of the court for his game-winning shot.

Jimmy Pepper scored 27 points for Henderson, which played most of the game without its 6-foot-8 freshman whiz, Larry Duckworth, who was saddled with a heavy foul load early and scored only six points. Calvin Oliver had 24 points for Sam Houston.

Southern State held a 33-point lead over Ozarks at one point. Charles Jones of Southern State scored 19 points, but Ozarks' Bob Chance led all scorers with 24.

Northeast, with Glen Sauters pumping in 29 points, pulled away from a 44-44 halftime tie for victory over State Teachers. Paul Thompson added 20 points to Sauters' production. Five Teachers scored in double figures with Mickey Johnson's 17 the most.

Ouachita led by four points at the half and protected the lead the rest of the way in whipping Arkansas College. Don Purdy scored 20 points for Ouachita. Jim Canada had 23 for Arkansas College.

Boxing veterans were dumbfounded at the unprofessional-like behavior of the two heavyweight champions, who are scheduled to fight for prizes ranging to a $100 top at the Houston Astrodome, Feb. 6. Terrell is the World Boxing Association's champion while Clay is regarded as champion in most parts of the world.

If this was a publicity stunt, then the acting was magnificent. Both Clay and Terrell would have received top grades from the Actors' Studio.

The nasty accusations made by Clay may have hurt Ernie's feelings but the fracas certainly helped return attention to the upcoming fight.

By a strange coincidence, the whole bit took place while a television camera was grinding and both were being interviewed by Howard Cosell, the ABC sports commentator, in the boxing publicity office in the Garden.

The occasion was a Garden press conference to announce that the big arena will show the telecast of the fight.

Boston Bruins in Tie With Canadians

The Boston Bruins tied the Montreal Canadiens 1-1 in the only National Hockey League game Wednesday night.

It was the Bruins' fourth deadlock in a 16-game span during which they have won only once. The Bruins' Wayne Connelly tied it with a goal at 17:37 of the last period.

Montreal had gone ahead at 12:37 of the second period on Jim Roberts' goal.

ONE SQUAD IS DEAF
AMHERST, N.S. (AP) — The stentorian roar of a parade-ground sergeant-major would be useless with No. 154 Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets here.

Its 24 members are deaf. Its flight commander, J.H. Wells, uses hand signals at drills.

But instead of standing directly in front of his squad, he places himself exactly 3 1/2 steps to the left so all personnel can see his signals.

Wells, staff member of this town's Interprovincial School for the Education of the Deaf, began the auxiliary flight this year as an experiment and now feels it will be permanent.

Rupp Again Stumbles, UCLA Wins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA continues to give opponents the shakes, and in Kentucky, Adolph Rupp just sits and shudders.

The top-ranked Uclians, led by towering Lew Alcindor, battered Wisconsin 100-56 in the Los Angeles Classic Monday night as college basketball's tournament turmoil reached its peak.

But at Lexington, Ky., Rupp's Wildcats, who seemed to have snapped their slump by winning their invitational tourney last week, stumbled again, dropping a 92-77 shocker to lightly-regarded Cornell.

That left Rupp's club — much the same team that reached the NCAA championships finals last March — with a mediocre 4-4 record. And all four losses have come at home, where the Wildcats are usually at their best.

Meanwhile, UCLA gave an awesome display in its LA Classic debut.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 1/2 sophomore, scored 24 points and grabbed 16 rebounds as UCLA demolished Wisconsin. He also blocked shot after shot, frustrating the Badger offense.

In the first game of the LA Classic opening round double-header, Georgia Tech upset Michigan 101-70 with Pres Judy scoring 21 points.

Western Kentucky whipped host Miami 94-89 for the Hurricane Classic title.

Providence and St. Joseph's advanced to the finals of New York's Holiday Festival, both on the strength of strong individual performances.

The Friars got 38 points from Jimmy Walker and whipped Northwestern 91-79 while Cliff Anderson hit 39 for the Hawks, who dropped Rhode Island 91-79.

Michigan State, ranked 10th in the country going into the Quaker City tournament this week, dropped its second straight there. The Spartans, who were beaten by Villanova in their opener, lost to Bowling Green 75-67 in the consolation round.

Houston, No. 8, got 22 points each from Elvin Hayes and Don Chaney and won their eighth straight, beating Kent State 85-73 in the opening round of the 85-73 in the opening round of the Arkansas State tournament.

Seventh-ranked Cincinnati, not playing in any tourney, kept busy with a 94-66 romp over St. Joseph's of Indiana as six players reached double figures. It was the Bearcats' eighth straight victory.

Clay's ideas for 1967, reported by Bob Addie in the Washington Post, also include a proposal for three 15-round bouts in a single evening and — at the other end of the scale — a suggestion that he might just retire.

Addie said Clay, guest of honor at a party in the apartment of Washington promoter Goldie Ahearn, pointed out he would have to get past Ernie Terrell in Houston on Feb. 6, but figured he would "give him the Ali Shuffle and win because I'm the greatest."

Clay has adopted the Moslem name Muhammad Ali.

Naming possible challengers for a June bout, Clay ticked off Thad Spencer, Joe Fraser, Zora Folley, Buster Mathis and Patterson, adding Liston when he was asked which of his previous opponents had most impressed him.

"Liston and Patterson should fight," Clay said, "and I'll fight the winner in Washington."

Clay said that after the proposed June fight he might retire.

As for the three-fight marathon, Clay said, "I want to fight a 15-round bout with Patterson, maybe. After I'm through with him, I'll take on another one, maybe Folley, for 15 more rounds."

"Then I'll wind up the evening with 15 rounds against Spencer."

Philosophies for Coaches Contrast

By F. T. MACFEELY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A veil of secrecy has been enforced by uniformed policemen around the practice field where Syracuse prepares for Saturday's Gator Bowl game against Tennessee.

In contrast, the Tennessee practice field several miles away has been ringed with spectators.

Coaches Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse and Doug Dickkey of Tennessee explained their contrasting philosophies.

"You're darn right it could make a difference if a Tennessee scout saw us practice," Schwartzwalder said. "We are putting in some new things, and I'm sure they are, too. We'd like to get a look at some pictures of them working."

Dickkey agreed that "we are putting in some new wrinkles." But, he said, he didn't think if a Syracuse scout watched the Vols practice he would learn much to affect the game.

Any visitor who approached the St. Augustine field where Syracuse has been working since Dec. 18 was stopped by an officer in uniform.

Prior clearance for reporters was enough to permit entrance "as long as you don't write anything about what we are working on."

Clay Lists 2 Possible Opponents

WASHINGTON (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay proposed Wednesday night a title fight in Washington next June, naming half a dozen possible opponents including Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson.

Clay's ideas for 1967, reported by Bob Addie in the Washington Post, also include a proposal for three 15-round bouts in a single evening and — at the other end of the scale — a suggestion that he might just retire.

Orange Teams in Top Secret Practices

By BEN FUNK
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Emerging from four top-secret practice sessions, Florida Coach Ray Graves says he figures the Orange Bowl football battle between his Gators and Georgia Tech may be won by a single break.

"I give Tech a slight edge on defense and us a slight edge on offense — but not much either way," Graves said. "A break, or possibly the kicking game, could be the difference."

Florida's hopes ride with Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner, and the focus was on the great quarterback as the Gators held twice-a-day workouts Tuesday and Wednesday with press and public barred.

There was only one sour note in the Florida picture. Defensive halfback George Grandy, one of the Gators' top head hunters, missed all the Miami practices because of a virus attack.

But Graves said he hoped to have him back Friday.

Georgia Tech, on the other hand, was plagued by an unusual rash of injuries.

Three key players — linebacker Billy Schroer, defense end Tommy Carlisle and tailback Jimmy Brown — will be doubtful participants in Monday night's Orange Bowl game, Coach Bobby Dodd said.

The Yellow Jackets will fly to Miami today. Dodd said all practices would be open to the general public "unless there are so many people they get in the way."

Cunningham Co-Captain for West

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Offensive tackle Dick Cunningham of Arkansas and defensive guard John Richardson of UCLA were elected co-captains Wednesday for the West football team that faces the East Saturday at San Francisco.

Coach John Ralston put his players through a single drill Wednesday.

Cunningham is one of two Arkansas players who will be in the starting lineup for the West team. All-America Loyd Phillips will start at defensive end.

REFRESHING THE DOCTORS

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Today's doctors are usually too busy to attend refresher courses so the University of Vermont College of Medicine is bringing the courses to them.

The college has initiated a two-pronged program to keep Vermont's 480 physicians up to date on advances in their fields.

One part of the program consists of a series of early morning television programs. The second is a combination of seminars and symposiums conducted by a rotating team of two physicians, a nurse and various technicians. They use an airplane in reaching every part of the state.

Dr. Welsh said he hopes the Vermont program will lead to a New England-wide effort.

During its run, Expo 67, the Montreal fair, will stage Canada's greatest military tattoo with nearly 2,000 troops.

Cowboys, Green Bay in Title Go

By JACK HAND
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Day Reeves is a farm boy from Georgia with flat feet, 16 touch downs and a burning desire to help the Dallas Cowboys win their first National Football League title.

Reeves, a halfback with an active sense of humor, claiming he developed the flat feet plowing behind the mules on his father's hog and peanut farm back home.

When Dallas meets Green Bay Sunday for the NFL title at the Cotton Bowl, much will depend on Reeves' ability to move those flat feet as a clutch runner and pass receiver.

Reeves, who played his college ball as a quarterback at South Carolina and was overlooked by both pro leagues in the draft, has carried the ball for 757 yards. Just for the purpose of comparison, the Packers' famous Jim Taylor ran for only 705 yards this year.

Don Meredith uses Reeves as a prime pass catching threat in his efforts to isolate the fleet Bob Hayes in a man-to-man coverage situation. Reeves has caught 41 passes, more than any Cowboy except Hayes, and ranks among the most valuable players on the club.

Reeves does not fit into the list of big bonus boys. He got about $500 to sign and definitely did not get any no-cut contract.

"I roomed with Obert Logan in my rookie year (1965) at Thousand Oaks, Calif.," said Reeves. "We got $7 per day during camp and we were so poor, to see the training season end, it meant we took a cut in pay."

Reeves doesn't have to worry about the money any more. He is due a healthy raise in 1967 after his fine season. With the rest of the Cowboys he will be playing for a winning share of about $8,600 Sunday and a share of the $15,000 winning slice of the Jan. 15 Super Bowl with the American League champions.

Fry Schedules the Toughest Practice

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Coach Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist scheduled "the toughest Thursday workout ever" today as he tried frantically to get his team's timing and execution match its mental and physical preparation for Saturday's Cotton Bowl game with Georgia.

Bitter cold and a long layoff forced by the academic schedule of the university caused Mustangs to falter with the passing and ball handling Fry worked them long and hard Wednesday afternoon.

"There was no question of desire or effort, and I think boys are ready to go all out now, but unless I can get better timing and execution we won't have much chance to beat a Georgia team," said Fry grimly.

"Today offers a last chance. We're really going to try, and may be unduly alarmed when we find we just had one of the days and had to work out in rough spots before we could start to function properly."

Fry said he hadn't been able to have a full-scale workout since Dec. 10.

Bruins Race to 6th Win Consecutively

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tied ranked UCLA demolished Wisconsin Badgers 10-3 Wednesday night in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic as Bruins' Lew Alcindor scored points.

With Alcindor blocking shot and intimidating the Badger offense, the Bruins raced their sixth consecutive victory. The 7-foot-11 sophomore, who also grabbed 16 rebounds, led the game with 10 minutes remaining.

Shortages of Pilots to Be Aired

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Preparedness subcommittee will launch a detailed investigation next year into pilot shortages in the armed services, sources revealed today.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., is reliably reported to be in the process now of deciding whether to hold a special hearing on the pilot problem or incorporate the investigation into its annual probe of readiness.

"I think we're in a very bad situation," one subcommittee source said. "We've got a very severe shortage of pilots and it's going to become worse at our rate of loss."

About 300 planes have been shot down over North Vietnam as of Dec. 14; more than 150 were lost there in 1965.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in a move to ward off even greater shortages, has approved sharp increases in pilot training for the Navy, Air Force and Army.

The boosts have not been officially spelled out yet, but Pentagon sources said they should produce an extra 8,000 pilots next fiscal year — most of them for Army helicopters. McNamara also granted the Air Force and Army an additional pilot training base and provided funds for the Navy to expand its present facilities.

Subcommittee officials acknowledged that the increased training rates should help, but described them as too little, too late.

The Navy now orders its men to serve two six-month tours in Southeast Asia; in 1968 it will either have to extend the length of duty tours, call for a third tour or call up the Reserves.

The Air Force and Army both are trying to limit their men to one Southeast Asia tour of duty. In the Army's case, many men have been sent back for a second time. The Air Force has avoided this thus far by cutting back on the number of pilots permitted to attend graduate or military schools and plucking fliers from staff jobs around the world.

The Navy and Army have eased their problems temporarily by voluntarily freezing some pilots on duty for an additional year.

Soviet Film of Moon Shown

MOSCOW (AP) — New Soviet pictures of the moon from Luna 13 show a barren, rocky landscape and small craters of irregular shape.

A panorama of the moon taken by the unmanned Soviet spaceship was shown on Moscow television Tuesday night. The pictures were clear and detailed, apparently shot by a revolving camera inside Luna 13.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Luna 13's pictures were transmitted Tuesday. The spaceship made a controlled landing on the moon Saturday night after a three-day flight.

Hydrogen Bomb Near for Chinese

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — Red China's fifth nuclear explosion, apparently its biggest, indicates a big stride toward a hydrogen weapon, Japanese experts said today.

There was some speculation the device exploded Wednesday was a small hydrogen bomb, or a reinforced nuclear weapon. Although the official Chinese announcement gave no details of the size and type of the device, Japanese newspapers had no doubt it contained thermonuclear material.

They noted the Chinese announcement said the test raised China's nuclear knowledge "to a new level."

Some predicted a grim new year's present if the test's radioactive cloud drifts over Japan as expected Saturday or Sunday. Snow, which could bring down contaminated particles from the atmosphere, is forecast for much of Japan on New Year's Day.

"At any rate, we must pay attention to the fact that real production of a hydrogen bomb (by China) is now imminent and only a matter of time," the newspaper Sankei said.

Sankei said Japanese defense agency officials did not believe the blast was a full-fledged hydrogen bomb because of the yield — estimated by U.S. intelligence at the equivalent of 300,000 tons (300 kilotons) of TNT. Sankei said Japanese officials

Famous Words Were First Uttered by Dear Old St. Nick

By HAL COOPER
NEW YORK (AP) — For all too many years now the phrase "Apres moi, le deluge" has been attributed by careless historians to King Louis XV of France. It is time to set the record straight.

These famous words, meaning "After me, the inundation," were in fact first uttered by none other than Santa Claus, and he wasn't just whistling "Dixie."

It's the middle of the week following Christmas. The scene, duplicated in millions of homes all over America, is the lounge of a middle-class menage with two young children.

The lounge is in a state of devastation, littered with pine needles, boxes, greeting cards, candy lumps and the shards of shattered plastic toys. Wafting through the air is the pungent odor from a spilled bottle of gift perfume.

Nosing his way through the debris like the shocked survivor of a major disaster is one of the new pet guinea pigs, unaccountably escaped from his cage.

Over all rises the wailing of a 9-year-old who has just learned one of life's inescapable truths: If you drop a glass ant farm on a parquet floor it will break into hundreds of pieces. And that's not counting the grains of sand, let alone the ants.

In another corner of the room his 10-year-old brother is trying to restart an electric clock knocked over by a toy hovercraft. Brother's face is dark with a premonition of failure.

Slumped on a couch plucking listlessly at a coverlet is mother.

Seated in a chair feebly pelting his unshaven jowls is father. They are barely alive.

"Well, it comes but once a year," says mother.

"True," says father.

"And it snowed," says mother. "At least it was a white Christmas."

"It was that," says father.

"Do you suppose the maid will show up today?" asks mother.

"Not if she has a lick of sense," says father.

At this point the guinea pig starts to climb up on the base of the Christmas tree. To the tree, of dubious stability from the start, the little animal's weight is the last straw. The tree begins to topple.

Father leaps from his chair. Too late. With a crash of light bulbs and ornaments and a gleeful cry of "Timber!" from the 9-year-old — who has decided his ants can fend for themselves — the 10-foot tree collapses.

The 10-year-old, a tidy-minded type who abhors disorder, especially if there is a chance he will have to help clean it up, asks: "Is it okay if we take our sleds out to the park?"

"Indeed yes," says father.

"In fact, I recommend it."

The children depart. There is a knock on the door. It is the mail man. He hands father a single, bulky envelope.

"What's the mail?" asks mother.

"Just my bank statement," says father, tossing it into a drawer.

"You aren't going to look at it?" asks mother.

"I'm afraid to," says father.

"Oh, cheer up," says mother.

"At least we've survived."

"That's the worst of it," says father. "To quote a phrase wrongly credited to Charles de Gaulle, but actually coined by your husband, 'Apres le deluge, moi!'"

Loud Music Hurting Your Child's Ears

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — If today's teen-agers need hearing aids when they're 25, they have only themselves to blame, says Robert A. Larabell.

Their rock 'n' roll music is too loud and it's damaging their ears, the acoustics engineer said Wednesday.

In decibels, Larabell said it ranks right up there with riveting, drop forging and automobile assembling. And workers in those industries are required to wear noise guards.

The quality of rock 'n' roll music draws no complaint from Larabell, president of an acoustics company. He objects only to its volume, particularly when it's amplified through batteries of loudspeakers in nightclubs with rows of listeners crowded in close.

Using standard industrial metering equipment, Larabell has measured the noise output of a number of rock 'n' roll bands.

"A home at night, with the TV turned off and everybody asleep, and nobody snoring, will produce about 40 decibels," he told a reporter.

"A private office — 60 to 65 decibels. A general office, 70-75. 'Somebody shouting' at you from a distance of three feet might make 80 decibels. Ability to communicate stops at about 95 decibels, and the most avid television or radio fan won't turn the volume past 90 decibels."

Larabell said the Air Force and others have worked up exposure charts that show how much sound over what period of time may be damaging.

He said he measured a volume of 90 to 95 decibels 20 feet from a teen-age band. "By Air Force charts, this much sound over an exposure of 15 minutes definitely can be harmful."

President Ulysses S. Grant's father was a tanner.

The finish line is drawing near in a preliminary race between two American aircraft companies, to see which one is selected to build the first U.S. supersonic jetliner capable of carrying 300 passengers at three times the present speeds. President Johnson is expected to make the final choice about Jan. 1 between the prototypes built by Lockheed above, or Boeing, upper right, to see which one represents this country in the international race for a jumbo jet.

Already America trails in the worldwide sweepstakes, behind the joint French-British Concorde. Russia is also busy on a prototype which may beat the Concorde into the air. Of the American hopefuls, Lockheed has designed a double delta fixed wing craft, shown in the artist's drawing above. Boeing has developed a movable swing wing, allowing a change of 30 degrees in the angle at which the wings project from the fuselage. Interior of both aircraft mockups show roomy and comfortable passenger sections, as indicated in the Boeing model at right. Whichever one is chosen, a U.S. supersonic jet is expected to be in service by 1974.

Lottery Idea Not Likely to Spread

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — If and when New York State's proposed lottery gets into operation, it is unlikely to become a national institution like the great Louisiana lottery of the 19th century.

Or, if it does, it will be the result of sub rosa activity.

The reason: Federal law is now tough on the interstate promotion of lotteries. It places strict curbs on the dissemination of lottery news by radio, television or newspapers.

In the Nov. 8 election, New York State voters gave overwhelming approval to a proposal that the state operate a lottery to help finance education. The 1967 Legislature will face the question of just how to carry out the idea.

Johnson Aide to Surgery

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's new press secretary, George Christian, is to undergo back surgery today.

Christian, 40, said he was having the surgery for a longtime ailment while Bill D. Moyers, his predecessor, is available to fill in as press secretary for about three weeks.

Christian became press secretary earlier this month after Moyers announced he was leaving the White House staff Feb. 1 to become publisher of Newsday, a Long Island, N.Y., newspaper.

of years of history, from the drawing of prizes by lot during festivals put on by Roman emperors, down to the Irish Sweepstakes of today. The latter is legal only in Ireland but residents of 147 countries buy more than $40 million worth of tickets annually.

In this country, the Louisiana lottery created a stir in the post-Civil War era. Promoters engaged famous names to act as front men. For a while, the Confederate ex-general, Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, held the post of manager. As one federal authority on gambling puts it: "This lottery became a frankenstein monster, the real power in the state of Louisiana, with very undesirable results." The lottery closed down in 1894.

Seventy years elapsed before another state, New Hampshire, tried a lottery. This one, based on horse races and with the profits earmarked for education, has been operating since 1964, with diminishing returns. The take thus far: 1964, $5.73 million; 1965, $3.9 million; 1966, $3.86 million. In the second year of the lottery an additional $617,000 was provided by a federal gambling tax refund.

The amount distributed to the schools was: 1964, $2.7 million; 1965, $2.5 million (including the tax refund); 1966, $1.85 million.

However, the lottery seemingly remains popular with New Hampshire voters. At the November 1966 election, 83.6 per cent of them favored sales of the tickets in their communities.

Stopped-up Nostril Is A Common Occurrence

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have severe sinus trouble which has been treated with antibiotics and antihistamines. As soon as the treatment is stopped the headaches and postnasal drip come back. Is there any permanent cure?

A—After several attacks of acute sinusitis, a chronic inflammation of the sinuses usually occurs. Since this condition is very hard to control it becomes necessary for the victim to take every precaution to avoid exposure to pollens or other sources of allergy, if allergy has been shown to be a factor. On cold days you should wear a breath-warmer when you go out. If a deviated nasal septum is part of your trouble, an operation to correct this condition should help you. Other operations to insure free drainage of the normal secretions from your sinuses may be necessary.

Q—When I lie on my left side my left nostril will stop up, but if I turn on my right side my right nostril will stop up. What causes this?

A—This is a common experience. Even when you are up and around, one side of your nose is more open than the other. The open side alternates every 30 or so minutes throughout the day. Most people prefer to lie in bed with the closed side above. They usually go to sleep before a shift in the closed side occurs. Sleeping in a room in which the air is too hot and dry may aggravate the discomfort in a stopped-up nostril. Try using a humidifier in your bedroom, especially in winter.

Q—When I walk my nose

The jargon was mostly pit stop, but the student mechanics wore black habits and rosary beads. A group of 25 New York City nuns who teach in parochial grammar schools had enrolled in an automotive mechanics class to learn more about the automotive components so they could pass the knowledge along to their students. Instructor was Ford Motor Co.'s Robert Fritts, of the New York district office, who gave classroom lectures, at left, explained individual auto parts, lower left, and let the nuns do some of the mechanical work themselves, below.

alcohol will dilate the blood vessels in certain skin areas in some persons. You are probably one of these. The condition is embarrassing rather than serious. No treatment is known.

ELECTED BUT LOCKED OUT
MT. VERNON, Ill. (AP) — Former Sheriff Dewey Barton won the race for the Jefferson county clerk's office, but he needed a locksmith to open the door.

Barton, a Republican, replaced outgoing clerk, Lester Davis, and when Davis prepared to hand over the keys he discovered he didn't have them. He left the keys in the clerk's office and it was locked.

When no key could be found to unlock the door, a locksmith managed to open it.

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

Timbuktu, now a town of only 7,500 population in the African country of Mali, was once a large and thriving trade center, says The World Almanac. In the 16th century, the city rose to splendor as a major caravan market dealing in gold, ivory, salt and gum. Great mosques were built and the city even supported a university which became a center of Moslem culture.

WIN AT BRIDGE
Brave Lead
Aids Squeeze

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South's four-club bid was Gerber and North's four-spade response showed two aces. This was enough to get South to bid a slightly optimistic slam.

He put it in hearts for two reasons. He wanted to collect 100 points for honors and he wanted to play the hand himself.

West opened the ten of clubs and the most South could count to was 11 tricks. He could run off his hearts but it was a cinch that whichever opponent held four diamonds would not discard one. There was a possible squeeze in case East held four diamonds and both the ace and king of spades but South saw a better line of play.

He won the club lead in dummy and played the four of spades. East played low and South played the queen. West might well have held off right then and there but West believed that a trick in the hand was worth two on the table so he took his ace and led another club. (Of course, if West had ducked, South would have had his 12th trick.)

No one can blame West for continuing clubs. It is rare

After the second club play it was all beer and skittles for South. He played out all his trumps and the last high club. This left everyone with four cards. Dummy held his original four diamonds, South the jack and one spade and ace and one diamond, and East the equivalent of a live rattle snake. He couldn't keep four diamonds and the high spade.

Bare Bosom Popular But Unfashionable

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON, (AP) — Milady's bare bosom is likely to remain popular — but it's unlikely to become fashionable.

Now who's putting on that front?

A man, of course. He's John Taylor, editor of the British magazine of male fashion, Tailor & Cutter, the voice of Saville Row.

In a book entitled "It's a Small, Medium and Outsize World," Taylor says that he has done a lot of research into his subject.

He says the topless dresses of the mid-1960s were really nothing new. He reports that in the year 1796, the Champs Elysees in Paris came to an interested half one afternoon as two interestingly unclothed young ladies strolled beneath the leafy trees.

One girl wore only a length of gauze, but tastefully draped.

Girl No. 2 strolled beside her friend with her bosom entirely uncovered.

Those who witnessed the public reaction to the topless dresses in 1964 will be less than surprised at the repercussions in the Champs 168 years before.

Here's what the author says happened:

"Furious to see public convention so lightly disregarded, the surrounding populace caught its breath only deep enough to voice plain hostility."

"It then advanced upon the pioneers in phalanxes of high dudgeon—or perhaps to obtain a clearer view—until the two ladies went in fear of their safety."

Taylor says the two girls were acting under the leadership of a pair of Parisienne fashion queens — Mesdames Recamier and Tallien, who had been, for the best part of a decade, encouraging the use of less and less, and more and more transparent clothing.

On this subject he says:

"Gossamer silks, muslins and a variety of other see-through materials, were quite unsupported by the proprieties of underwear, and diamond bracelets were shifted from the traditional of the wrists and arms to encircle thighs and breasts and gleam seductively through the transparent materials which covered them."

But this had faded.

A student of manners as well as fashion, Taylor says that the reason why the bare bosom will never become fashionable is because of middle-aged women. "The establishment reigns as supremely in female circles as it does in the male," he claims, "and as the age levels roughly correspond. Middle-aged women who establish feminine mores are bound to obstruct implacably a style which can offer them nothing but disadvantage."

Emphasizing that women are extraordinary persons, the author says they will "accept a fashion for its own sake—even when they basically disapprove of it."

He cites the modesty boards that appeared like sprouting forests in British offices during the mid-1960s.

The boards—thin strips of wood nailed across the open spaces of the desks where female workers type—were to prevent male colleagues from being able to see female legs.

"It was a typical piece of female illogic," writes Taylor. "The modesty board had about as much sense or reason as those little strips of linen women fasten across their chests in order to hide from male sight the cleavage their décolletage was designed expressly to reveal."

With a philosophical editorial sigh he concludes:

"Women will resort to almost any trick in order to attract a man's attention, and then they will be morally affronted when he looks.

TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

William Edward Bazzelle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bazzelle, honored his parents with a gala twenty-fifth wedding anniversary reception, Monday evening, December 26, 1966.

Fifty of their friends from Hope and Rosston, Arkansas were present at the affair. Among the guests were also friends and relatives from other cities, namely: Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Greer and son of Fort Worth, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Goode and sons of Refugio, Texas. Mrs. B. A. Turner of Houston, Texas. Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Lewis and son of Camden, Arkansas. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Brannon, son and daughter of Lewisville, Arkansas. Mrs. Hattie Lee Boozer of Chicago, Illinois. Masters Cedric and Russell Hawkins of Little Rock, Arkansas.

Their pastor, Rev. Walter White gave a few expressions of congratulations and offered prayer. The guests presented the couple with a large number of gifts.

COMING AND GOING

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard and children, James C. Morrison, Charlean, Janet Lee, Loretta, Charlie Lee, Rose Mary, and Helen Joe Howard, and Junior Dee Johnson, are spending the holidays with relatives in Texas, California, and Wyoming.

Mrs. Mary F. Johnson and grandson, Darrell of St. Louis, Missouri are holiday guests of her mother, Mrs. Birdie Powell and family.

Another Park for Northeast Arkansas

ANOTHER PARK
BY Max E. Love, Travel Writer
Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission

Another fine recreational facility for northeast Arkansas recently became a reality with the official dedication of Lake Charles State Park near Powhatan, 10 miles west of Walnut Ridge.

This new park is unique in that it started off, many years ago, as a watershed project that resulted in a dam across Flat Creek. This early project was accomplished under U. S. Public Law 566, the National Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act.

Initially the dam was built to contain the wild waters of Flat Creek during the spring flood season—waters that often inundated and ruined thousands of acres of cotton, corn, and other crops native to this section of Arkansas.

Lake Charles, the impoundment formed by the dam, covers an area of 645 acres. The lake was well stocked with fish by the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission. Consequently, long before it was even dreamed that the area one day would be a fine state park, fishermen from throughout northeast Arkansas were flocking to the lake to test their angling skill against the wits of the scrappy largemouth bass, crappie, bream, and channel catfish.

And, the youngsters were not to be denied either and it didn't take them long to learn that here was a fine place to swim.

Lake Charles — as well as the five other smaller impoundments that make up the Flat Creek Watershed—also furnishes water for a nearby Game and Fish Commission Wildlife area. Waters drawn from the project to this wildlife area have created an excellent "rest stop" for ducks and other waterfowl (in season, of course), which makes duck hunters of north central Arkansas just a little more than happy.

With so much already accomplished it could be assumed that the citizens of Lawrence County—especially that civic minded group who were responsible for the watershed project in the first place—would now sit back and enjoy what they had. But the progressive citizens of Lawrence County just don't do things half way. When they start a civic project, they stay with it (aggressively) to its conclusion.

At this point, the Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission, the State Highway Commission, along with numerous other groups, were called in and from this action, Lake Charles State Park became a reality.

The new park features a swimming beach with a combination change house and concession stand and a large parking area; two sizeable picnic areas complete with tables, benches and below-ground garbage disposals; a boat ramp and loading dock with adequate parking space for a large number of cars and boat trailers; numerous bridle paths and hiking trails; and a very spacious camping area with 58 individual camp pads. The camping area is equipped to accommodate house trailers, pickup trailers, trailer campers and tents. The area also has running water, bathhouses and rest room facilities.

Recently the Publicity and Parks Commission announced the purchase of Mammoth Spring, about 65 miles north of Lake Charles, near the Missouri line. This property including the famous spring, soon will be converted into a fine state park with approximately the same facilities as Lake Charles State Park.

Mental Health Matching Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said Tuesday that the state would match any available federal funds requested for a mental health complex at Jonesboro.

Faubus said it would be a few days before he had figures as to how much federal money would be available, but he said the request would not be met in total.

He said some moves in Washington, probably due to the cost of the Vietnam war, reduced the amount of funds the state will get for the center.

Some Liberals Critical of High Court

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal critics of the Supreme Court — and there are some — may be a little premature in writing off the 1966-67 term as one in which the justices swung toward conservatism or backed off big issues.

True, the justices were unwilling this year to plunge into a squabble over the traditional exemption of church property from taxation, to say whether the right to counsel applies in minor criminal cases or even to deal with organized baseball's hallowed immunity from antitrust law.

And decisions approving convictions of Negro civil rights demonstrators, the use of a paid government informer to help convict Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa of jury tampering and selection of Georgia's next governor by a legislature held malapportioned did not ring bells in liberal circles.

But the term is not even half over and three cases the justices already have decided to hear have within them the seeds of activist rulings that have made the Warren court anathema to conservatives.

Two are at the very nerve center of civil rights emotions: housing discrimination and bans in some states on racially mixed marriages. The third, electronic eavesdropping, is critically important to civil libertarians — and prosecutors.

California relators will be attacking a California Supreme Court decision that voided a voters-approved ban on open housing laws.

If the California court is upheld, the justices may lay down a broad finding that the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution either bars housing discrimination or at least requires states to act to bar legislated discrimination.

The same amendment's guarantee of equal protection under the law may serve to strike down Virginia's ban on interracial marriage and, by extension, similar laws in 17 other states.

Two years ago, when the justices had a chance to throw out the Florida interracial marriage ban, they ducked, although they invalidated a state law which prohibited cohabitation between persons of different races.

An appeal from the Virginia antimiscegenation law, filed on behalf of a mixed couple by the American Civil Liberties Union, appears broad enough to provide a basis for junking such laws in the 18 states — if the justices are of a mind to.

The eavesdropping appeal before the court also may be broad enough for the justices to expand the area covered by the search-and-seizure provisions of the Fourth Amendment.

But they could confine their ruling to narrower grounds: In this case whether New York City prosecutors made an adequate showing of "probable cause" when they obtained state court permission to "bug" a suspect in a liquor license scandal.

Our First Anniversary in Offset

One year ago today—Dec. 29, 1965—Hope Star switched from letterpress to printing by the offset process, making the switch permanent nine days later, Jan. 7, 1966.

That first edition just a year ago was nerve-racking but satisfactory. The Fairchild factory engineers who installed our five-unit rotary offset color press jumped us with the announcement that the big press was ready for its initial run, just as we faced a 16-page edition.

It wasn't an ideal moment for our staff. Lacking experienced paste-up folks we had to compose all 16 pages first in metal, as with the old letterpress method, then proof the pages, throw in the metal, photograph the proofs, and produce aluminum plates for the press. We were prodigiously late for this reason, finally going to press at midnight.

But regardless of the hour it was a mighty success, for we did get the paper out. I felt like the wagon-boss of a traveling carnival, who didn't know until he put the show together in the next town whether he hadn't overlooked something while moving from the town before!

Actually we hadn't missed a thing. And that late first edition showed us how the offset bear walked—and we were able to turn the lesson to account when we made the new process permanent on Jan. 7. Then we got out at 9 p.m., and a week or two later we approached normal deadlines as the crew gained operating skill on the big press.

We were somewhat longer learning the art of re-photographing news pictures in the shop. But in a month we had arrived at the correct formula—and the public realized the worth of the offset process from the "new look" in pictures.

By the end of August I was able to turn over the entire job of process photography to the crew. Starting without any professional outside help we had in eight months learned the intricacies of a new and entirely different plant and converted our original letterpress staff into offset operators. I am grateful to Billy Dan Jones, mechanical superintendent, and Gene Allen, long-time staffers in letterpress, who in this short time have become competent offset pressmen and process photographers; and to Managing Editor Paul H. Jones and Advertising Manager Don Parker who trained our staff girls in the art of "pasting up" pages from proofs, instead of making them up in metal as in the old days.

Now our new Berkey Direct green color machine—second such newspaper machine to be delivered in the United States (No. 1 to the Cowles family, who own the Des Moines Register & Tribune, for their suburban paper at Deer Park, Long Island; and No. 3 to the Chicago Tribune)—is in our shop, still crated, but scheduled to begin four-color process pictures next month.

Ours is probably the biggest financial gamble ever made by newspaper our size anywhere—but as 1966 draws to a close I'm happy to inform our staff and the public that our initial year in offset is the best in our history—a record that goes back 71 years to 1929 when the late C. E. Palmer and I bought and consolidated the Hope newspapers.

A good New Year's greeting from Mrs. C. E. Palmer and myself and our staff—from all of us to all of you.

Goodman Is New Highway Director

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ward Goodman should be able to step into his role of director of the state Highway Department with the greatest of ease.

The 58-year-old Tennessee native was selected for the job Wednesday after Walter E. Hicks, who has been director since last March, asked to be relieved of his duties.

Goodman will assume the directorship Jan. 1, but it won't be new to him. He has been acting director twice.

He has served in almost every engineering capacity with the department during the past 30 years. He was the department's deputy director and chief engineer until Wednesday.

Highway Commissioner Maurice Smith of Birdeye told Goodman, "You've been a bridesmaid so many times and now you're going to be the bride."

It was reported, however, that Goodman could have been director sooner if he wanted. In an interview with The Associated Press, though, he would not say whether he had ever been offered the directorship before.

"I'll dodge around that," he said.

There was no particular reason, he said, why he accepted the director's post. "I just felt like I could help do a good job."

The mild-mannered Goodman served as acting director from May 1963, when the commission eased out F. R. Oliver as director, until January 1965, when Mack Sturgis moved over from the state Purchasing Department to the highway director's post.

He was acting director for another two months during the next two years while Sturgis recuperated from a heart attack. Goodman also has to keep a close watch on his health. He suffered a heart attack in 1957 and was hospitalized about 10 days.

The attack, however, failed to tarnish his enthusiasm. He said

TIME CAPSULE honoring Sir Winston Churchill has been buried beneath his statue in Washington, D.C. A letter from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, deposited in the National Archives for delivery to the U.S. president in 2063, will invite the future president to open the capsule and publish its contents. Enclosed are microfilm records of the Churchill years and achievements, to serve as an example to the future generation that... "in any age, peaceful or perilous, human courage can never be outdated or unneeded." Presenting the capsule before its burial to Alexander C. Next Week Government Takes Another Bite in Weekly Pay Checks

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government will take a bigger bite of the weekly paycheck beginning next week to help pay for increased Social Security benefits, especially medical care for the elderly.

Social Security taxes will climb from this year's 4.2 percent rate to 4.4 percent on Jan. 1 and most of the increase will be used in the medicare program.

Over-all, the increase will add an extra $1 billion to the Social Security trust funds during 1967 but the most any one person will have to pay is $290.40, up $13.20 from this year.

Of the $13.20 increase, $9.90 will be earmarked for the medical care program and the rest for regular Social Security benefits.

And there's more to come in the years ahead. Increases in the Social Security tax rate are already built into law through 1987 and any increased benefits voted by Congress could mean even higher taxes.

President Johnson has already made an across-the-board improvement in benefits as a major legislative goal for next year and has the support of both Democratic and Republican leaders.

Next year's bite won't hurt as much as the one last January when not only the tax rate but the earnings on which it is levied were raised. The first $6,600 in earnings will be subject to the tax next year, the same as this year.

But the 1965 tax was based on a rate of 3.625 percent and earnings of $4,800 for a maximum payment of $174. This rose to $277.20 this year. Of this year's maximum, $23.10 was earmarked for medicare.

Next year, $33 of every maximum payment of $290.40 will go for the medical care program.

This maximum is paid by both the worker and his employer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, of the House Armed Services Committee, says the United States should "flatten Hanoi if necessary (and) let world opinion go fly a kite."

His Senate counterpart, Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Armed Services Committee, says "the use of superior force is the only means by which they (the Communists) can be forced to the conference table."

Rivers, a South Carolina Democrat, said in a telephone interview Wednesday night from Charleston, S.C., "We should use to the fullest the potential of our great air power" upon North Vietnam.

He said the lack of full use of such power "is why these people think we're kidding."

Major Snow Storm Hits Much of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
AP Special Correspondent
A major snow storm which curtailed travel and disrupted normal activities over much of the Midwest, swirled into the East today.

Snow continued in most of Upper Michigan and northern Lower Michigan but only light snow or flurries were reported in other parts of the north central region. Skies were clear in most of the Plains states.

More than three feet of snow was reported in Marquette, Mich., and heavy snow warnings were in effect for northern Lower Michigan and eastern Upper Michigan. Strong winds caused much drifting in Upper Michigan.

The storm which struck the Midwest Tuesday left more than a foot of snow in parts of Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota. Nearly a foot of snow closed roads and slowed traffic in other Midwest states.

The storm, powered by gusty winds, spread over most of western Pennsylvania and parts of New York State and Virginia and into Washington, D.C., and areas in New England.

Many areas in the East still were digging out from a heavy snow that fell several days ago. The U.S. Weather Bureau said hazardous-driving conditions had been posted for a 13-state area from Virginia to New England. The bureau said the outlook was for snow, sleet and freezing rain over much of the Northeast today and tonight.

At least six persons, three in Rochester, Minn., two in Chicago and one in Rockford, Ill., died, apparently of heart attacks, while shoveling snow.

Outside the snow belts, showers and thunderstorms splashed much of the Southeast. More than one inch of rain fell at Tallahassee, Fla., in six hours and nearly an inch fell in many areas from eastern Alabama to western North Carolina.

More rain was reported in the Far Northwest and light snow fell in parts of the northern Rockies. Mostly clear skies prevailed in other sections of the country.

Below-zero temperatures were reported in mountain sections in the West, with -5 at Flagstaff, Ariz., and Grant, N.M. The mercury also dropped to 5 below at Grand Island, Neb., and -3 at Laramie, Wyo. In contrast, the early morning high mark was 71 at Miami and Key West, Fla.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Health Education and Welfare has approved a grant of $500,000 to the University of Arkansas for an administration building and a grant of $447,500 to Arkansas A&M College at Pine Bluff for a fine arts building, it was announced Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wayne Hampton, chairman of the Arkansas Highway Commission, said Wednesday the Highway Department had committed all its federal funds and apparently would not have a bid opening in January.

He added facetiously, however, that the department could hold a January bid opening if Governor-elect Winthrop Rockefeller were correct about a $45 million department surplus he has talked about.

"Now is the time for Mr. Rockefeller to come up with the $45 million cash surplus," Hampton said. "We'll have a January bid-letting if he'll tell us where it is. We could build a lot of roads if we had it."

By awarding contracts Wednesday, the Highway Department committed all the federal money it can get until April, Commissioner Truman Baker of Searcy said if there were a January bid opening, it would be only for a couple of small state projects.

The meeting apparently was the last of the commission over which Hampton will preside. His term expires next month and Rockefeller already has said he will appoint former state Sen. Lawrence Blackwell of Pine Bluff to fill the vacancy.

Hampton drew praise from his fellow commissioners. "You've been a good chairman," said Armit Taylor of Clarksville. "You've been an inspiration to all of us."

China Blast Another Bomb in Rubble of Relations With Russia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
China has exploded another nuclear device and thrown yet another bomb into the rubble of Soviet-Chinese relations.

As much as any other one factor, atomic weaponry has contributed liberally to worsening relations between the two Communist giants and may yet be the element which makes the break complete and final.

With the latest explosion—Red China's fifth and its third this year—Peking issued a propaganda blast which said the success of these tests "is a heavy blow to U.S. imperialism and Soviet modern revisionism, which have been collaborating in a vain attempt to enforce their nuclear monopoly and sabotage the revolutionary struggles of all oppressed people and oppressed nations."

With each Red Chinese explosion Soviet nervousness has increased. This explosion could be enough to push the Kremlin into a more active role in seeking peace in Vietnam, despite avowals from Moscow that the Soviet leaders will take no such initiative unless specifically asked by the North Vietnamese.

Moscow appears now to see in China's nuclear club membership a real threat of nuclear weapons spreading to other countries and of a world situation developing beyond the control of the two major nuclear powers.

Peking has vowed again and again to "break the nuclear monopoly" of the Soviets and the Americans, and has given the impression that it believes the more nations that get the bomb, the better. The official Peking People's Daily said recently that Red China "will never be party to the so-called nuclear nonproliferation treaty to deprive non-nuclear countries of their rights and injure the interests of the world's people."

As China grows more confident, Moscow grows more jittery. The danger is far closer to the U.S.S.R. than to the Western Hemisphere. And China, denied Soviet help since 1958 in the nuclear weapons field, grows more belligerent toward the Soviet leaders with each successful test.

Third U.S. Nuclear Ship in Action

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The U.S. Navy announced today that its power-packed Task Force One—made up of all three of the Navy's nuclear-powered surface ships—is in action in the Gulf of Tonkin off North Vietnam.

The latest to arrive was the frigate Bainbridge, which joined the aircraft carrier Enterprise and the cruiser Long Beach at "Yankee Station" 100 miles off the North Vietnamese Coast.

The three ships operated previously as Task Force one with the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean and sailed together in a history-making round-the-world voyage without refueling in 1964.

The 85,000-ton Enterprise, the world's biggest warship, arrived Dec. 17 for her second tour of duty with the 7th Fleet off Vietnam. The Long Beach preceded her by two weeks.

The Navy's disclosure came as ground fighting slackened again in South Vietnam and the 48-hour New Year's truce approached. Only one ground clash of any significance was reported.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division battled a North Vietnamese force of unknown size in mountain-situated rice fields 280 miles northeast of Saigon. Fragmentary reports said they were still fighting this afternoon.

U.S. casualties so far were reported light and enemy losses were not known.

No contact was reported in the big Mekong Delta sweep launched Tuesday by several regiments of South Vietnamese troops, including 1,000 or more paratroopers who jumped unopposed into canal-laced paddies 126 miles southwest of Saigon.

A Vietnamese military spokesman said Viet Cong casualties remained at 89 killed, the number announced Wednesday for the initial two days. All were attributed to air strikes and infantrymen. The spokesman said the paratroopers had failed to engage enemy units so far.

The U.S. military command reported a American troop strength in South Vietnam reached 376,000 last Saturday, an increase of 5,000 men over the previous week.

The command also announced U.S. casualties last week were 109 killed and 574 wounded, compared with 88 killed and 433 wounded the week before.

Vietnamese headquarters reported 203 government soldiers killed last week compared with 190 in the previous week. Communist casualties last week were placed at 1,083 killed and 198 captured, the week before 860 enemy killed and 98 captured were reported.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Authorities said Wednesday that an accumulation of natural gas might have caused an explosion Tuesday night that fatally injured five members of a family.

"I don't know what else could have caused it, but we hate to say for sure that it was gas when we don't know," said Capt. J. D. Hampton, North Little Rock fire marshal.

The dead are David Fortenberry, 41; his wife, Ocie, 35; their daughters, Susan, 8, and Linda, 12, and his mother, Mrs. Nellie Fortenberry, 62, of Newport, who was visiting. The explosion demolished the Fortenberry's home.

Friends and neighbors reported that members of the family had complained the last few days of smelling gas and of odorless fumes that caused their eyes to burn and hurt. Some neighbors said they smelled leaking gas around the house.

Hampton said the cause may never be known.

Evidence indicated that gas accumulated beneath the flooring of the five-room house, authorities said.

TEEN BOOST OF THE MONTH

Dear Helen: I thought you might be a list of the maxims for betterment of life that were written by our high school freshmen. These kids wrote over 200 maxims but since I can't send you all, I chose the best. Maybe they will help prove to "unbelievers" that teens are good and responsible citizens.

1. Society is not our leader — our conscience is.
2. How you live your life in its early stages shows in your adulthood.
3. Realize that things are evil, unless you make them evil.
4. If ever you are thinking of making fun of someone, put yourself in his place and think how it feels.
5. Respect people for their goodness, try to overlook their faults.

6. Be happy to be alive, and take advantage of life's goodness.

7. Remember: The things of the earth are temporary, while the spirit lives on.

8. Don't go with the "in" crowd if you don't think it's really "in."

9. Try not to isolate yourself from the problems of society (civil rights, slums, war, etc.)

Thank you for your time, Helen. — MARK

Dear Mark: And thank YOU for sending a fine contribution to our Teen Boost of the Month Club. — H.

Dear Helen: A.N. asked about ankle bracelets. If you wear one on your right ankle it means you have no boyfriend. If it is worn on the left ankle, you have got a boyfriend and aren't "in the running." — GAIL

Dear Helen: I recently went on a date with a boy who was driving his mother's car. It had bucket seats. He expected me to move over and sit beside him, between the seats. That is darn uncomfortable, sitting where there is no seat!

Are't boys inconsiderate to ask, and don't I have a right to sit in my own seat? — IN A HOLE

Dear IAH: You certainly do have a right to sit in a seat. If a boy in a sports car wants to get chummy, he'll just have to settle for holding your hand! — H.

Dear Helen: Tell me how to get even with my brother. He thinks I use the phone too much. So he smeared the ear piece with peanut butter — thick! — and then trotted over next door and called our house. I was the only one home so I answered, and — G-u-u-k! Have you ever tried to wash peanut butter out of your ear? — MAD SISTER

Dear Mad: We-I-I-I-I know a girl who smeared limburger cheese on the engine of her brother's car, but I wouldn't recommend it. Leads to open warfare.

Why not bombard him with kindness for the next few weeks? This may have two good effects. 1. He'll be so baffled (and watchful) he won't try any more practical jokes, and 2. The kindness may be catching and you'll start a new era of peace at your house. — H.

Dear Helen: I am a 13-year-old boy with a premature mustache which looks kinda like

Takes Oath of Office by Mistake

By BILL STALL

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — By mistake, and in the most casual fashion, Ronald Reagan already has taken his formal oath as California's 33rd governor.

The Republican governor-elect thought he was signing a routine loyalty oath when the document was read to him by a deputy secretary of state in Reagan's Sacramento office on Tuesday, an aide said.

But it turned out to be California's oath of office, which consists largely of a pledge to uphold the constitutions of California and the United States and not to try to overthrow the government.

"No one thought it was a swearing-in procedure," said Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's press secretary, "but he did raise his hand and affirm what had to be affirmed. But it was not fully explained to him."

Bert Clinkston, deputy secretary of state, said, "when I got there, I assumed that he had been briefed but nevertheless told him, 'This is the document that will officially make you governor.' Then he went ahead with the oath."

Reagan already had made careful plans to take the oath in the capitol rotunda at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 2. The sooner the better, he said, to assure continuity of government.

Reagan will go ahead anyway with the 12:01 a.m. swearing in before newsmen and about 150 invited guests. He'll also hold a public inaugural Jan. 5.

"It isn't going to change anything," Nofziger said.

Whale Oil

Once used for lighting and soapmaking, whale oil is now mostly converted into margarine. World production of whale oil is about 500,000 tons per year, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

JUST CHECKING, a U.S. Navy air cushion patrol craft inspects a Vietnamese sampan for possible contraband. Three of the vehicles capable of skimming along the water's surface on a layer of air at speeds up to 50 m.p.h. have been operating in South Viet Nam's waterways since May 1966, intercepting suspicious vessels to prevent seaborne infiltration of men and supplies for Viet Cong units.

Some Pity for the Enemy

CU CHI, Vietnam—(NEA)—The Viet Cong guerrilla has proved time and again in this war that he is by no means a stupid soldier.

But once in awhile he acts that way.

Mark Baruzzi can tell you. He was there recently when the idiotic actions of one pathetically ignorant Communist resulted in the bloody annihilation of an entire enemy squad.

Baruzzi, a 19-year-old M-60 machine gunner from Cleveland, was riding in a noisy mechanized convoy when the incident occurred.

His unit, part of the 25th Infantry Division, was aboard a column of armored personnel carriers and pushing through brush so dense that visibility was reduced to spitting distance in any direction.

Eye space hardly mattered, though. The group wasn't looking for trouble at the time. It was purely a routine troop transplant.

The time was late afternoon. The men were relaxed.

Then it happened, although it shouldn't have. The convoy rolled right into and almost right out of what proved to be the campsite of 13 unfriendly soldiers.

They were sleeping. So soundly were they sleeping that Baruzzi's outfit didn't see them at first. They most probably would have passed them by completely, except

"Except one of the dumb clucks woke up."

That one, a weary sentinel, panicked immediately as he witnessed the U.S. vehicles clattering through his line of feeble defense. He thought his position was being overrun.

He screamed something. He jumped up. A shot rang out.

The guard's bullet was futile. An APC is wrapped in an inch of iron and the shell plinked harmlessly off one transport's skin. Automatically, however, every rifle bolt in the American unit snapped without opening their eyes from sleep.

"IF ONLY that dumb cluck hadn't fired," Pfc. Mark Baruzzi (left) said. With him is Specialist Ralph Tuttle. Both are from Cleveland, Ohio.

There was a brief moment of instinctive reaction. The vehicles lurched to a halt and rifle barrels appeared at every opening.

Baruzzi, sitting atop one of the tanks, saw no one immediately but with a sweeping gesture he swung his gun to open fire.

And so did everyone else. In moments steel flooded the VC camp. Baruzzi's gun alone pumped several hundred three-inch-long bullets in the first 60 seconds of activity.

Whole swatches were cut in the walls of the forest. Vines dropped, trees bent in half, bushes were ripped. Large leaves from taller branches were torn loose to flutter down.

It was disaster for the other side. The probability is that some of the guerrillas died Cautionously Baruzzi and his people climbed down from their vehicles. They stooped from body to body, poking the fallen with their barrels to determine individual conditions and count heads.

It was a grisly census. Viet Cong soldiers are small people and in their ordinary wounds look massive. They sprawled in weird positions, half-hidden by the tangle of their camp.

The total was high: eleven dead.

The men stared without expression. Such are the happenings of war, certainly, and each of them accepted it with shrugs. But they are human and emotional and even soldiers feel pity for an enemy that is killed.

Mark Baruzzi shook his head and spoke for all: "If only that dumb cluck hadn't fired."

was too much—a bloody nose, a ripped-off fingernail, bruises all over her body.

Corman wanted realism and he got it. The scene was shot with hand-held cameras as Jean and George slugged and bit and wrestled and clawed. Jean dished out as much as she took.

"I may look fragile," she says, "but I'm a pretty strong woman."

Jean is a good bet for stardom. She stole "The Oscar" and reports are that she is great in "In Like Flint." Now "Massacre" should get her talked about even more.

She's a girl from Darien, Conn., and both her feet are firmly on the ground. Her father is a successful businessman, her brother a successful surgeon in Pittsburgh, her sister a successful interior decorator in San Francisco. Her family's success helps her maintain her equilibrium.

"If I ever started acting important," she says, "they would bring me down to earth very fast. Actually, I think it's a crime the way some actors act like they are so very important—I haven't time for that kind of attitude."

Jean Hale thinks a great deal about stardom and the mental problems that status entails. She wonders if she'll be able to cope with it, when and if it comes to her.

"I can understand," she says, "why people become difficult—all the pressures and all the demands on your time. In six months, my own situation has changed drastically after 'The Oscar,' 'Flint' and 'Massacre.'"

"I've had to learn how to say no, how to be rude if necessary."

Tybee Afra, the glamorous half of the dance team of Tybee and Brascia, telephoned to say hello. It isn't often that Tybee and Johnny Brascia are home, but they're here for a month or so. Tybee was very excited because she and Johnny are going to do a comedy skit with Jack Benny, which will be aired on the Hollywood Palace in late January or February. It will be their first other-than-dancing exposure.

They were going out to dinner with Johnny's pool-shooting pal and his date—Fred Astaire and a gal named Barrie Chase.

Raymond Burr's hand is still in a cast, and it is healing slowly. Burr says he's having a tough time learning to do things with his left hand. He nearly cut himself to ribbons trying to shave southpaw-style and finally give up and bought an electric shaver.

SKI AMERICAN

PUPIL AND TEACHER

DOAK WALKER, left, the famous All-American and All-Pro back, takes to the hills in Colorado under the guidance of Olympic skier Skeeter Werner.

By SKEETER WERNER

Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I recommend as the first step in skiing a good instructor. Not because I happen to run my own ski school in Steamboat Springs, Colo., but because otherwise it's like playing Carnegie Hall before you can read the music.

If you start on your own, or ask the assistance of a non-qualified person, you develop bad habits. These habits are hard to break and usually lengthen the learning procedure in skiing.

Just think of taking that steep run from the top of the mountain in one month, when you're not quite sure of what you're doing and might not reach the bottom, or taking it in three and looking like a real schussboomer, too.

In this series, I've enlisted the aid of Doak Walker, a fine athlete, to review some of the skiing procedures that are basic and then going through some of the more advanced steps. Doak is a fine guinea pig, so to speak, in this area because he's a recreational skier who started at a relatively late stage.

Skiing is a sport that can be enjoyed by the whole family, from five to 65. Even at 40, you shouldn't be discouraged from starting. Doak is 40 and can cut as neat a parallel track as anyone would want to see.

So get yourself in shape, choose proper equipment and go to an established ski school for proper instruction.

Rindt Speeds Toward Success

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NASSAU, Bahamas—(NEA)—Jimmy Clark is a quiet man. So when he says something, everybody listens.

Jimmy Clark, the world's greatest race driver, says Jochen Rindt is a man to watch.

"Rindt is the best young driver around," Clark said, after winning the Watkins Glen Grand Prix just ahead of Rindt. "He's easily one of the seven or eight top Grand Prix drivers."

Clark's testimony is important in the world of Grand Prix racing for two reasons:

• Suddenly on the Grand Prix circuit last year there was a paucity of young talent, mainly because not many young drivers can get the equipment to buck the likes of Clark, John Surtees, Jack Brabham, Dan Gurney and Graham Hill.

• Strangely, Grand Prix racing all but locks out nationalities other than British, American and Italian. Rindt is Austrian.

"When I started racing five years ago," said Rindt, 24, in crisp British-accented English, "I couldn't get the best equipment and so therefore I couldn't get to the best races."

"I knew I was good, but I wanted to get better. So, the natural thing to do was go to England. You have to make ties in England with the right drivers, the right owners and the right mechanics if you want to make it."

"I don't think the English are trying to keep others out of racing. It's just that in Europe, England is where racing is—with a couple of exceptions.

"So everybody knows that there must be good international competition for Grand Prix racing to survive. The American rise is good, but it was a long time coming."

"Now it would be good if other countries got started. West Germany, some of the South American countries, perhaps Japan (Honda) are making progress, so am I and so can others."

Next year, Rindt is a man to watch because he will have top equipment. He will be driving a Cooper-Maserati of new design and in preliminary testing it looks solid.

Here at Nassau's annual Speed Week to test a new Volkswagen Formula V the won easily. Rindt leaves shortly for South Africa to prepare for the South African Grand Prix on Jan. 2.

Dan Gurney has signed Rindt to drive one of his American Eagle cars for the Indianapolis 500 next May 30.

"I would rather win the world driving championship (Grand Prix racing only)," Rindt said, "but Indianapolis is something that fascinates Europeans and I would like to see what I can do there."

But Rindt again will be facing the problem he said he faced when he began racing—English domination.

Tom Landry, astute coach of the Dallas Cowboys, doesn't kid himself about the caliber of the opposition in the upcoming NFL title game. "We both got there," he says, "with fine defensive units, but the Packers is a little better than ours. They pose special problems because they've got those three big linebackers, which makes it tough to run at them. We'll be up there with them when our young kids get more experience—like Willie Townes at end and Mel Renfro, who's only playing the off-safety (free safety) for the first time this year." ...

Super Bowl has become the generally accepted title for the clash between the NFL and AFL on Jan. 15 in Los Angeles, but officially the office of the commissioner winces at the name—just as it doesn't relish the Playoff Bowl at Miami between second place teams being called the Runner-Up Bowl. ...

Chuck Howley, the brilliant corner linebacker for the Cowboys, once played middle guard on the same line at West Virginia, with Sam Huff (now a Redskin line-backer) and Bruce Bosley (center for the 49ers) on each side of him as the tackles. Howley's weight dropped down to 215 this year (from a normal 230) as the Cowboys closed in on their first division title in history and he was unable to eat in the tension. ...

If Otis Taylor, the sensational sophomore receiver for the Kansas City Chiefs, looks like he has an affinity for the foot ball, it's natural. Originally, he used to throw the ball, as a great Texas high school quarterback—and also called signals at the start of his college career for Prairie View. ...

Big decisions brewing on the condition of Joe Namath, notorious right knee. The Jets' team physician is supposed to be tinkering with some revolutionary idea of replacing the damaged ligament. Joe's first appointment soon as the season ended was at the medico's office. ...

Florida's all-everything, Steve Spurrier, doesn't agree with the speculation that it takes three years to learn to master the tools of a quarterback in pro football. He believes that college defenses have introduced enough man-to-man defenses the last couple of years to help his recognition of coverage. And as for the college proclivity towards scrambling, he says, "Two guys in the backfield can run better than me, so why should I carry the ball?" ... On the effect of the Heisman Award towards his pro contract: "It's gonna be a li'l bit." ...

Sports in Review

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Luckily for the Baltimore Orioles Andy Etchebarren is a better swimmer than Frank Robinson.

Because he is, the world's championship flag will be flying from the flagpole in Municipal Stadium next season.

Etchebarren received credit for Baltimore's biggest "save" of the season. Even the Oriole relief staff of Moe Drabowsky, Stu Miller, Eddie Fisher and Dick Hall couldn't match it.

The Baltimore catcher pulled Frank Robinson from the deep end of the pool during an Oriole team party last summer.

The incident didn't bother Robinson. He went on to win the American League's triple crown with a .316 batting average, 49 home runs and 122 RBI. He also was selected Most Valuable Player in the was property of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Walter Alston was wondering how you replace a 27-game winner and an all-star shortstop.

Through all the seriousness, some lighter moments stand out.

No one made a louder noise than Leo Durocher when he took over the managership of the Chicago Cubs.

On a speaking tour of the Midwest, Leo was going through his regular tough-guy routine. After he finished, members of the team were introduced. Secondbaseman Glen Beckert was one of the speakers.

"It's seldom a .240 hitter gets to the speaker's table," Beckert said, "but Mr. Durocher's here, so I'm not alone."

The Cubs, under the guidance of nonnie guy Leo, finished a very cold last in the National League.

In Atlanta, permanent home of the Braves for at least the next 25 years, catcher Gene Oliver was explaining his .415 batting average against Sandy Koufax.

"He thinks I'm Jewish," Gene said.

The longest game of last season was 29 innings between the St. Petersburg Cardinals and the Miami Marlins. The game lasted six hours and 59 minutes.

Bob Taylor, the St. Petersburg leftfielder, had a very bad night. He went into the game batting .368. He finished batting .250 after going 1 for 13.

When Bill Vecek heard that Michael Burke of CBS would be the new president of the New York Yankees, he was quite amused.

"I'm glad to see Mr. Burke has a circus background (Burke was formerly general manager of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus)," Vecek said. "When you're in 10th place having been with a circus gives you a better appreciation of clowns."

There were the usual brushback controversies throughout the season. Someone asked former Red Sox manager Billy Herman his choice of the best brushback pitcher. "Freddie Fitzsimmons is my man," Herman said. "He once hit me in the on-deck circle."

Joel Horlen of the White Sox had the best answer to a newsmen's question.

After Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox hit a home run to defeat Horlen, 1-0, the inquiring reporter asked the obvious question.

"What did you throw, Joel?" he asked.

Horlen had an even more obvious reply.

"A baseball."

Frank Robinson

World Series and MVP for the season.

Robinson came to Baltimore from Cincinnati. Bill DeWitt was the man who executed the trade. He executed himself at the same time. DeWitt sold the Reds in December to a group of Cincinnati businessmen.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' troubles didn't end with their four-straight game defeat in the World Series.

In a startling move, Sandy Koufax, baseball's greatest pitcher, announced his retirement due to the pain caused by his arthritic left elbow.

Then, during a good-will trip to Japan which generated more ill will because Koufax and Don Drysdale stayed home, shortstop Maury Wills jumped the team and returned to Los Angeles.

A few weeks later, Maury

They've Got a College---in Kalamazoo

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Every time someone mentions Kalamazoo my cells tweek and I remember two college journalists who once visited that country.

The young women from Australia were fascinated with the city's name and put it on their must list of places to see.

The city, they explained, was popularized by the Glenn Miller hit record years ago, such as Winchester Cathedral now is. It's funny what will rouse a student's curiosity. Such campus-inspired wondering, though, is leading to a two-way jetstream of international student exchanges.

Kalamazoo, the Aussie girls will be happy to learn, hasn't let them down. Since the late 1950s a small college in the Michigan city has been sending its students off to investigate life in communities with equally intriguing names and lore—Quito, Ecuador; Freeport, Sierra Leone; Vichy, France; Bonn, Germany; Beirut, Lebanon; Nairobi, Kenya.

Although the number of students participating remains small in comparison to those from Big Ten student bodies, a count reveals that 1059 Kalamazoo College students have studied in 22 cities in 14 countries. The impact on the students, on their families and friends is immeasurable.

Discussing this recently there was one who helped develop the school's foreign study program. With his crew-cut and tweed jacket, Dr. Richard V. Stavig looked more like the small town midwestern businessman who gets "hooked" on Times Square than a shrewd English professor who travels all over the world solving problems with foreign school representatives and businessmen.

According to Stavig, he is an expert because "I was a bright lecturer at the University of Heidelberg in 1958 when Kalamazoo began the program. Since I was there, I selected to help set up the study in Germany. With one year's experience, I became an expert."

Right Forgive Communist Who Errors

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP)—"The attitude Communists toward any person who has made mistakes in his work should be one of persuasion in order to help him change and start afresh and not of exclusion, unless he is incorrigible."

Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung made this statement in 1938. Today 28 years later, Mao at 73 faces a dilemma: Should he continue to try to persuade his former heir apparent, President Liu Shao-chi, and Communist party secretary Peng Hsiao-ping of the error of their ways? Or should he dismiss them as incorrigible and exclude them from the corridors of power?

LESS THAN a day's flight separates Michigan and an African country. Yet it takes more than speed to span the distance. Trying to close the people gap are two students from Kalamazoo College shown buying fruit from a street vendor in Sierra Leone during study abroad.

The first year 25 Kalamazoo students went abroad. This fall's class is 191.

The foreign study program has helped KC shift from a science-oriented campus to one more interested in social education, languages and the need to communicate with other countries.

About 90 per cent of the student body of 1,150 to 1,200 enrollment takes part in study abroad.

"There are many things to say about the program," Stavig explains. "Perhaps the most significant is what happens to the students when they live with families in other countries."

"Academics has more meaning. Living with a family in Madrid whose members fought in the Spanish Civil War makes history come alive for a student."

Just as important is the report from parents that their sons and daughters have grown up while away. The students say they "discover something about family relationships to help them with their own families."

The Kalamazoo College program is supported by the S.R. Light Trust and the students pay $760 for the first and third quarters and $380 for the second. They receive credits for their work abroad.

One of the greatest benefits to the students, Stavig feels, is "heightened awareness" of the United States from the vantage of a foreign country.

"Our problem has been," he adds, "to help them avoid being backed into a corner by the elite students in other countries. These youths have more political savvy. We do have sessions to prime students to field questions on such things as race and Vietnam. However, there are no pat answers. The students are told to be honest and free in their replies. They can't fake it."

cultural revolution purge in June and July, while Mao was out of Peking.

Liu's admitted mistakes go back to 1946. Their number and seriousness raise the question: Was he forced on each occasion to indulge in self-criticism? Or has he, through control of the party majority, been able to defy Mao for two decades without being scratched?

It appears that in 1946 he favored a coalition government with Chiang Kai-shek, and a long period of peace for China. The implication is that Mao did not and sparked the belligerent wing of the party which welcomed, if it did not encourage, the breakdown of the talks over which the late U.S. Gen. George C. Marshall presided.

Priest Reveals His Marriage

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Robert G. Wessellmann, former chancellor of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Belleville, announced Tuesday he was married to a divorcee last fall.

The priest, who was ordained in Belleville 13 years ago, said upon leaving Belleville to live in Kansas City, Mo., he was married to Frances H. Burton, 36, of Belleville in a civil ceremony.

Wessellmann, 38, resigned as chancellor of the diocese Oct. 23. The position is the third highest in the diocese. At the time he said he was resigning for reasons of health.

"I am convinced that I am no longer called to live and serve in the priesthood as it is currently structured," said Wessellmann. He said he would work for a private firm in Kansas City, evaluating poverty programs in the city.

Indian Wars Survivor Dies

SOUTH BOSTON, Va. (AP)—William Sutphin, who was one of America's four surviving veterans of the Indian wars, was to be buried here today. He died Monday at the age of 93.

Sutphin joined the Army in 1894 at the age of 21 and set out for the Arizona Territory. Assigned to the 24th Infantry, Sutphin was a member of an all-Negro company directed to halt a series of Indian border raids near Ft. Huachuca.

DON'T YOU BELIEVE IT... Tomorrow's projectionist plays tricks on the eye, producing triple the number of women around the house.

JOAN CROSBY: MAGICIAN'S ASSISTANT

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—You know that trick where a girl gets in a basket, a magician sticks swords through it? Well, it's not a trick.

I know. I got in a basket. Milbourne Christopher, one of the world's top magicians, very kindly used bamboo poles instead of swords while I was curled up in there thinking of all the time I had wasted trying to figure out the gimmick. The poles merely fit around the curled-up body.

"This part of the trick is adroitness," Christopher said. "The second part is magic."

That's the part where the girl disappears. He didn't make me disappear, possibly on the theory that I didn't have my typewriter with me, and couldn't do a story from "out there."

Christopher is co-producer and guest star on a special magic edition of The Garry Moore Show set for CBS-TV Jan. 1. He will make an elephant disappear.

Other magicians on the show are P. S. Sorcar, who is so revered in India he was sent to Russia on a cultural exchange for the Bolshoi Ballet; Marvyn Roy, who works with electric light bulbs; and Virgil and Julie, who do a spirit seance.

The climax to the show will be Christopher's feat with the elephant. He promises that it will be the biggest illusion ever seen in America. The great Houdini did a version of the trick in which an elephant went into a box and disappeared. But in Christopher's version, two gates close in front of the elephant, who remains visible behind them until Christopher commands the elephant to disappear. He does, immediately.

"I will not have a chance to work with the elephant until the day of the show," he says. "They say they are quick learners. I hope so."

Christopher, who has never performed this stunt before, may not even do it during the dress rehearsal of the show, saving all his power for the actual performance.

A native of Baltimore, who became hooked on magic at the age of six when his father taught him how to cut a piece of string in two then put it back together again, Christopher considers magic both his hobby and his business.

"It's a business when I perform and a hobby when I do research and collect."

He owns about 7,000 books on the subject, including a rare first edition published in 1584 called, "The Discovery of Witchcraft."

"In those days discovery meant an explanation, and this book explained that some people who were thought to be witches and warlocks were really only sleight-of-hand artists."

The author of 17 books on magic, Christopher is presently compiling material for a biography of Houdini. When he is not making elephants disappear. But it is ever thus in show business. His stunt, great as it is, will be topped by CBS the week after Garry Moore's magic show. Jan. 8 will be Garry's last show. CBS is making him disappear.

Confusion Reigns in Indonesia

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno recently grumbled to a palace guest: "What is all this talk of new order and old order? There is no order in Indonesia."

Even Sukarno's sharpest critics tend to agree with the 65-year-old president's summation of the confused political scene.

The question of order in this huge Southeast Asian nation is constantly voiced by political leaders and emphasized in headlines.

But few can say what it really means.

Sukarno is judged by the government now in power to be the supreme representative of the old order, meaning the previous Communist-influenced government.

The new order is meant to be the anti-Sukarno students and those in step with the present leadership.

But as some political veterans here note with a wry smile, this is at least the third new order of Indonesia. Every new government that comes along under Sukarno calls itself the new order.

Sukarno, who has seen a host of new cabinets during his stormy reign, has grandly ignored all this. He is, as he recently proclaimed, the original order.

The talk of order—and disorder—points up the strange power struggle.

Indonesia is led by two men who smile fondly at each other in public but are privately fighting desperately to gain firm control.

On one side, President Sukarno is fighting for his own political life.

On the other side is army strong man, Gen. Suharto, leader of the group seeking to remove Sukarno's influence and even Sukarno himself if possible.

Removing Sukarno, who is still revered by millions of Indonesians as their great revolutionary leader, is not easily done.

Some diplomatic and Indonesian sources believe Suharto might have removed Sukarno seven months ago without too much difficulty.

Now they believe Sukarno has managed to marshal more support. More importantly, he is playing one force against the other with enough success to keep his opposition off balance.

Many men in influential positions owe their jobs to Sukarno and he doesn't let them forget it. Many more are sitting on the fence to see which way the ball bounces.

But the campaign against Sukarno, which slackened noticeably during the past two months, is gaining momentum again.

Anchovies Garnish Stuffed Tomatoes

By GAYNGR MADDUX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Thanks to modern technology and fast transportation, it is now possible to enjoy fresh tomatoes any month in the year, almost as many in January as in July. Americans love fresh tomatoes and use some 2,388 million pounds of the handsome fruit annually.

If a mature, well-formed tomato isn't quite red enough, it should be allowed to remain at room temperature, in a good light, but not "window-silled" in hot direct sunlight. Once they are red-ripe, refrigerate them and use them within a few days.

STUFFED TOMATO ITALIENNE
6 tomatoes
1/4 cup chopped fresh onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

1 can (1 3/4 oz.) Anchovies
1 tablespoon butter
Cut stem end off tomato; scoop out pulp and save to use later. Sauté onion in butter. Add bread crumbs, parsley, oregano and pepper until lightly browned. Stir in cheese and 1/2-cup tomato pulp. Fill tomatoes. Top each tomato with 1/2-teaspoon butter. Place anchovies crisscross over each tomato. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. 6 servings.

FRIED FRESH TOMATOES
3 medium (1 lb.) fresh tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
Salad oil

Wash tomatoes and cut each into 4 slices about 1/4-inch thick. Dip in bread crumbs which have been mixed with salt and ground black pepper. Cook in salad oil over moderate heat, about 5 minutes or until browned on both sides. Serve hot with eggs and crisp bacon, ham or sausage. Six servings.

STUFFED TOMATOES—Italiane touch.

Who Is Liable-Free?

How often have you heard someone say, "I'm gonna sue"?

In the last few years lawsuits for personal damages have increased. Once upon a time, if one of Junior's hamsters bit a member of the bridge club, mother would apologize. Incident closed. Now her friend may sue. More important, she might win her case.

The question of who is liable-free becomes more complex as laws are modified and awards become more lenient.

For example, if you haven't seen your mother-in-law for several years and you give her a big hug when she comes to visit, accidentally breaking two of her ribs, are you liable? The answer is yes.

If a gate-crasher at your open house during the holidays slips on a scatter rug and breaks his wrist or nose, are you liable? Maybe yes; maybe no. As a gate-crasher he is a trespasser. If you let him stay without kicking him out, he may be considered your guest.

On the other hand if an encyclopedia salesman trips over something in the driveway and breaks an ankle you probably won't be liable. He is known as a licensee and is not a trespasser. But he has no invitation to come onto your property and generally you would not be liable for injury.

Another area, which many insurance firms call "brat endorsement," involves the mischief youngsters drum up. For example, during school vacation a son is involved in a brawl which results in $350 damage to a neighbor's property. You may be liable. In many states, including California, Connecticut and New Jersey, parents are legally and morally liable for damage caused by willful misconduct of their children.

These examples are drawn from the claim files of The Travelers Insurance Companies and represent some unintentional incidents that can prove costly to a family.

One of the problems in dishing out what might happen if another is injured on your property by your pets and such is that there are different degrees of negligence and different interpretations in courts throughout the country.

Personal liability is based primarily on two basic legal principles. The first is that an individual must act at all times with reasonable care. The second principle holds that failure to exercise reasonable care constitutes negligence.

No matter how careful a person is to "exercise reasonable care" he still can be liable for back-breaking damages from so-called involuntary negligent acts.

Few persons have the money to pay for damages. This is why it is wise to buy comprehensive personal liability insurance. Most likely you'll find it included in a homeowners policy.

LBj Appears to Be a Bit Different

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — What kind of President Johnson will there be in the White House in these final two years of his first full term?

He seems different from the Johnson of most of the first two years.

For months now this extremely vigorous and aggressive man, an arm-twister and master politician, has been operating within a kind of half-light. He has been seen, he has been heard, but only occasionally.

This in itself is extraordinary. It is a switch from his earlier White House days when he would take to the airwaves two or three times within a week at the drop of a bomb in the Dominican Republic.

Within the past few months a change seemed to set in.

Instead of devoting every possible minute to campaigning for Democrats who needed all the help they could get in the November elections, he went off to Manila and toured East Asia for a couple of weeks.

It was a trip which, it seems reasonable to believe, could have been made earlier or postponed even until 1967.

HOPE (ARK) STAR. Printed by Offset

Last week Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa told newsmen that Democratic state executives attending the National Governors Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., were almost unanimous in blaming Johnson's unpopularity and his administration's programs for the party's poor showing last November.

This isn't the only rebuff for Johnson. He has seen the public opinion polls show his popularity going down. Yet he seems to be doing no more to help himself, in a public relations way, than he did to help his party.

This doesn't add up. He is being criticized — although why this has started at this time is not at all clear — for the "credibility gap" in what is said by himself and his administration.

Johnson, an extremely sensitive man who in the past has hungered for public approval, smarts under this kind of criticism. But he isn't taking any action, at least publicly, to meet this, either.

Instead, he almost seems withdrawn. This could be explained, of course, on several grounds: after the elections he had some minor surgery, then he went to Texas to recuperate, then he had to get busy there on his whole program for 1967. He will hand Congress most of it when it returns in January.

But the explanation, sound as it is, seems a little unreal when Johnson's boundless energy rush for the microphone, dash to the television screen in other days are remembered. He always fought back. He doesn't seem to be fighting back now.

The question is: Will he fight back in 1967? He will have to if he intends to run again in 1968.

But he has a terrible monkey on his back, the war in Vietnam, which by the very nature of its unsolved, dragged-out condition is bound to cost him some popularity and confidence, no matter what else good he does.

And the cost of the war is bound to force him to cut down on domestic programs which, without the war, could be expanded. He has rough going all the way. But other presidents have had rough problems, too.

When all the handicaps of his problems are added together, they still don't explain why this dynamic man let his Democrats fend for themselves at election time, when he is the leader, why he has become almost silent, or why he is publicly doing so little to help himself.

AS SOON AS HE COULD
LOUISVILLE (AP)—When one of the boys in her class failed to report, Mrs. Alfred Simpson asked his sister where he was.

"Why," she replied logically, "he was 16 yesterday."

Kentucky law makes school attendance mandatory until the 16th birthday.

Mixed-up Year, but 1966 Made a Lot of Women's News

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

Whether 1966 turns out to be anyone's favorite year is a purely personal matter. You can't beat it, though, for news in the women's world. You've got:

The first woman in modern times to rule a major nation. (Indira Gandhi, 48, daughter of the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, elected prime minister in February of India's 480 million.)

The first wedding of a President's daughter in 52 years. (Luci Baines Johnson, 19, to Patrick Nugent, 23, at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, on Aug. 13.)

The first woman governor in 32 years. (Lurleen Wallace of Alabama, who plans to let husband George—barraged from a second consecutive term himself—do the work.)

What women worried about in 1966 was a key to the highly charged times, if they had a son or boy friend or husband in Viet Nam, the war surely came first.

At home women grew increasingly disturbed over food prices. By late fall rebellion set in. Around the country organizations of embattled housewives boycot-is part of the scene.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

The First Lady, Lady Bird Johnson, cheered her husband President Lyndon B. Johnson through two operations, accompanied him on an historic 17-day Far Eastern trip, at year's end received a gold medal award of the National Institute of Social Sciences for her "extraordinary achievement" to raise American cities from their status as "second rate" environments.

Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, 44, who was the first Negro woman to sit in the New York state senate, the first to hold the Manhattan Borough presidency became the first to be appointed to a federal judgeship.

Miss Carol Laise, a blue-eyed blonde in her late forties, became the fifth woman U.S. ambassador. Her post: Nepal.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 68, of Maine, won a fourth term in the November election, the country's only woman senator. Only the women incumbents and one new woman—Margaret Heckler, 35, of Massachusetts—were elected in the House.

EVERYBODY LOVES A LOVER, except maybe when the bridegroom has worn a Nazi uniform or when some critics consider him a little long in the tooth for the tender bride. A few of the year's most publicized marriages fell in these categories.

In the Netherlands the populace made it clear the matrimonial choice of Crown Princess Beatrix, 28, willful and very rich, was not popular. But in March she married him anyway, debonair Claus von Amsberg, 39, West German diplomat and former member of the Hitler Youth.

Indignant oratory and talk of impeachment from conservatives on Capitol Hill greeted the sudden marriage in August of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, 67, and Cathy Heffernan, 23, Oregon sociology student. It was his fourth marriage. Said Cathy later: "There are many more men 30 years old who are not as vital as he is."

Another May-September pairing brought together the king of the Rat Pack, singer Frank Sinatra, 50, and Mia Farrow, 21, TV actress in Las Vegas in July after months of on-again, off-again rumors. Mia's mother is actress Maureen O'Sullivan, 54, the Jane of Tarzan fame.

Other celebrated splittings: Five-star Omar Bradley, 73-year-old widower, and Esther Buhler, 44, a screenwriter, who share an interest in horse racing; actress Melina Mercouri, 41, and film director Jules Dassin, 54, who shared 10 years together before deciding to marry because it was the out thing to do; Pamela Turnure, 23, press secretary to Jacqueline AWARDS and high honors came to women in many fields. Nelly Sachs, 75, won the Nobel Prize in Literature, for her sweeping poetry, virtually unknown before the award except in Germany and Sweden. She had fled to Sweden in 1940 to escape the Nazi regime.

Another fragile-looking, 75-year-old writer, Katherine Anne Porter, won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction, for her collected stories which earlier in the year had won the National Book Award. "I had to live a long time to win," she said. Late in the year the American Academy of Arts and Letters, whose membership is limited to 50, announced her election to its illustrious ranks.

In England Queen Elizabeth II on her annual birthday honors list named as baroness Dame Evelyn Adelaide Sharp, a former his fourth wife, Dyan Cannon, 28, Margaret Truman Daniel, 42, former President Harry Truman's only daughter and wife of Clifton Daniel, 53, managing editor of the New York Times, had their fourth son.

Looking to the new year: Ethel Kennedy, 38, ebullient wife of Sen. Robert Kennedy, is expecting their 10th child; Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, wife of the New York governor, is expecting their second child—her sixth, his seventh.

Some of America's most popular and distinguished women—in the theater, the arts and public affairs—died in 1966, including: Nebraska-born Mari Sandoz, 68, who wrote tales of the Great Plains; actress Gertrude Berg, 66, star of radio-TV's "The Goldbergs"; Malvina Hoffman, 79, America's foremost woman sculptor; Sophie Tucker, 79, show biz queen for 60 years; Kathleen Norris, 85, author of nearly 100 romantic novels; Marguerite Higgins, 45, Pulitzer-Prize winning reporter and columnist; Anne Nichols, 69 playwright who wrote the fantastically successful "Able's Irish Rose" in 1922; Florence Ellinwood Allen, 82, a pioneering jurist who became the first woman elected to a state supreme court (1922) and the first appointed to a U.S. court of appeals (1934); Elizabeth Arden, 81, who built a multimillion-dollar business in beauty salons, cosmetics and clothes;

Shirley Jackson, who made literary history with her short story "The Lottery," and whose suspense story "We Have Always Lived in the Castle" was made into a play; Lillian Smith, 68, author of "Strange Fruit" and other novels that fought racial bigotry; Margaret Sanger, 82, who was jailed for opening the first birth control clinic 50 years ago and who spent her life crusading for the control of conception as a basic human right.

SOME FIRSTS:

Dr. Patricia Plante became the first woman to be appointed dean of an undergraduate college (the newly founded Thomas More

Kennedy beginning with White House days, to Robert Timmins, 36, broker;

Brigitte Bardot, 31, France's maturing sex kitten, and Gunter Sachs von Opel, 33, wealthy German industrialist and playboy; Xavier Cugat, 66, bandleader and his 21-year-old singer, Rosario Pilar Martinez Molina Baeza.

Other vital statistics of the year:

CRIB NOTES: Hollywood actor Cary Grant, had the opportunity to coo at his own offspring (a girl) for the first time in his 62 years. The proud mother was list in spite of its medical textbook prose. The research for "Human Sexual Response" was carried out at the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation in St. Louis by Dr. William H. Masters, a gynecologist, and Mrs. Virginia E. Johnson, a psychologist. The authors hoped their work would help in treatment of sexual inadequacy.

Also in medicine: A prophylactic vaccine against Rh sensitization showed virtually total protection in more than 300 women. A mumps vaccine proved nearly 100 per cent effective in clinical tests. In Boston a team of physicians reported correctly predicting the sex of babies before birth 39 consecutive times using a new test.

TAKE-A-PON FILM... Camera poses its patterns on face as well as film on this futuristic popular take by Gerald Perry.

This Was the Year of Party Ultimates

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There are styles in party giving just as there are styles in clothes.

During the Kennedy administration the party style across the nation was elegance and culture. When the Texas Johnsons moved in the trend became informal, with mixer games and ranch style barbecues.

But this year hosts have wearied of following the White House themes. These aren't "most" enough.

This is the year of the most. The ultimate. The superlative in entertainment.

Memorable celebrations this year had the longest, the loudest, the most daring, the most colorful, the most exclusive, the most expensive, or the most unusual environment.

Consider the superlatives in that order.

LONGEST... Four days of partying was the idea of Joe Tankos, wealthy hotel man, who persuaded a plane load of sun followers to leave New York for 96 hours and a daisy chain of parties in Palm Beach.

But Betty Margolis of Portland, Me., topped that one this spring by getting Philharmonic minded citizens to collaborate in a nine-day eat-and-dance marathon.

LOUDEST... Anyone who was not totally deaf by the end of a 1966 party season was cheating. If hostesses did not assault the ears with at least two audio-echoing rock 'n' roll groups on their own premises, they hired a hall, noise and all.

In New York the really chic thing to do was to invite too many guests to jostle each other in a noisy local discotheque. Hosts tied up Sybil Burton's

THE MOST EXCLUSIVE... The number of people NOT invited to a party enhanced its prestige. That Capote cold-bloodedly limited his guest list to a mere 520 friends whetted a desire to attend in the hearts of still thousands more.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy's guest list is also coveted, and never abused. Not every body can be long to this inner-inner circle. Therefore, any party of her was automatically regarded as tops.

THE MOST EXPENSIVE... Charity balls are more of the same unless you bring horses into the lobby as Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt once did a few years ago in Miami, or as was done recently at the International Hall in Washington. You've got to have a gimmick, like entering through a window instead of the door, as the members of the Chicago Boys Club did this year at their money-raising event.

High cost is an interesting, memorable gimmick. The annual April in Paris Ball responded well by raising its price from $300 to $350 for each pair of duets.

On a private basis perhaps the annual prize for costly parties goes to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart Leas, Jr. at Westbury, a 35-acre estate on Ox Pasture Rd., L.I. New York.

Mrs. Leas is the former Fernanda Wanamaker of Philadelphia. In 1963 some of the young guests at her daughter Fernanda Wetherill's debut were accused of causing an estimated damage of $6000 to an ocean front mansion rented for the occasion. Her mother subsequently canceled a formal debut party for Philadelphia society and gave twice what she intended to spend, $100,000 to the Germantown Academy, a boys school in Philadelphia.

This year's party made up for things just a little. The Oriental inspired "Night in Bombay" theme with striped pink silk tent, fountains, a 13-man orchestra, and a baby elephant cost at least $10,000 to swing.

UNUSUAL ENVIRONMENTS... These aren't easy to come by anymore. But party people still manage to locate airplane hangars, steamships, vegetable barges, tour buses, amusement parks wine cellars, cluttered lofts, European palaces, and airplanes in mid-air for their festivities.

Sometimes, if an unusual location is not readily available, they think to do is to book an unlikely situation into an ordinary surrounding.

To honor maestro Leopold Stokowski, for example, the Saul Rubins took over the Rainbow room 64 stories above New York and threw a Prohibition picnic. The picnic had silver lune tableclothes, the guests in black ties and bejeweled dresses, crystal goblets and silver, two orchestras—and no ants.

CARNIVAL NOT IN RIO... The scene is the Cheetah, a super discotheque where the Cercle D'Or, an exclusive jet set party giving group, tossed its annual Carnival in Rio. The year before they flew to Rio for their party.

Tasty Corned Beef and Corn Scallop

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Typical of good midwestern farm cookery, here's Corned Beef and Corn Scallop, a dish from Iowa, "where the tail corn grows." Simple, satisfying and attractive, it's a combination of lightly sauced vegetables and meat.

Serve the Corned Beef and Corn Scallop with buttered peas and tiny onions, chilled lettuce and tomato salad, hot rolls with peach preserves, followed by lemon chiffon pie and a beverage.

QUICK DISH with old-time taste.

- CORNEB BEEF AND CORN SCALLOP
- 1 can (12 oz.) corned beef, unchilled
 - 1 egg, lightly beaten
 - 1 slice bread
 - 3 to 4 cups frozen corn, or drained cooked or canned whole kernel corn
 - 2 tablespoons finely diced onion
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 tablespoon diced pimento (optional)

- 3 tablespoons fine dried bread crumbs
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup milk
- Flake corned beef with fork. Add egg; tear bread slice into small crumbs and add; mix well. Shape mixture into 8 flat patties. Mix corn with onion, parsley and pimento if used; spread in greased 10 x 6 x 2-inch baking dish or 1 1/2-quart shallow casserole. Mix bread crumbs and salt; sprinkle evenly over corn. Pour milk over all. Arrange corned beef patties on top. Bake, covered, at 375 degrees for 20 minutes; uncover and bake 5 minutes longer or until patties are browned. Four servings.

Grapes and Pears

Emperor grapes are abundant, budget-priced and wonderful eating. It takes some 5,000 acres—47 square miles—of vineyards to grow enough of the beautiful Emperor grapes for the fruit bowls of America. This exceptionally large, beautifully colored and very sweet dark grape is above all a table grape. The high temperatures of California's San Joaquin Valley this past summer has made these grapes unusually sweet this year.

Emperor grapes are most often eaten out of hand. But sliced and seeded, they add fresh flavor and texture to all kinds of desserts and salads. They hold together well if immersed, whole, in a medium sugar syrup for 3 to 5 minutes.

EMPEROR GRAPES AND PEAR DESSERT

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
- 6 unpeeled fresh pears
- 2 cups Emperor grapes, seeded
- 1/2 cup white wine or ginger ale

Combine sugar, water and lemon juice in saucepan. Cut pears in quarters lengthwise and add. Cover and bring to boiling point. Simmer 3 to 5 minutes. Remove pears from heat and cool. Combine pears and syrup with grapes and white wine; chill. Serve in fruit dishes. Yield: 6 servings.

Heart Italiane

- 2 pounds beef or veal heart
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1/2 cup onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste

1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) tomatoes

1 package (7 ounces) spaghetti, cooked

1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese, if desired

Wash heart thoroughly, removing veins and hard parts. Cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Brown meat, onion, and garlic in lard or drippings. Add salt, pepper, pimiento, tomato paste, and tomatoes. Cook slowly 2 hours, or until meat is tender and mixture thickened. Serve over spaghetti and top with grated cheese, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.
